

William Howland Writes of Trip

Mr. and Mrs. William Howland, 592 Woodland avenue, are expected back in Birmingham Saturday from an extensive Eastern trip that took them through several New England states.

In a letter received during the past week at the Eccentric office, Mr. Howland wrote of their first stop at Gouverneur, N. Y. In Gouverneur, situated in the northern part of the state and in Lawrence County, some 100,000 U. S. Army men were participating in war maneuvers. The entire first army (composed of the first, second and third corps areas) was divided into two opposing armies for the war games that continued for 21 days.

Warlike Appearance

The Western army, with headquarters at Gouverneur, took the defense against the Eastern army located at Winthrop. Every large farm in this area was a camp. Dr. Howland pointed out and to all appearances this country might be at war with what officers, soldiers and army trucks everywhere.

From Gouverneur the Howlands motored to Vermont where near Woodstock they visited Dr. Howland's eldest brother who has a 1300 acre farm among the Green Mountains. From Vermont they stopped in Worcester, Mass., to visit Dr. Howland's sister and took her on to Plymouth, Mass., for the annual meeting of the "Pilgrim John Howland Society". This society was organized in 1897 and in 1924 Dr. Howland was elected its fourth president.

"We seem," Dr. Howland writes, "to have no traditions concerning a third term, for I have held that office ever since and apparently it is a life job."

The membership of this society is found in 36 different states of the union and there is one each in Canada, Mexico and Scotland. The Howland society owns the old Howland house in Plymouth built in 1666 and which is now used as a Pilgrim Museum. About 2,500 people visit this house every season.

Find Colonial Relics

"We also own," the letter continues, "the property where the Pilgrim John Howland lived from 1635 until his death in 1672. The house and other buildings were burned about 1678 during the Indian War. Since that time the foundations have been covered to a depth of several feet by dirt, and sand, and three years ago we had it excavated and found the original foundation stones, the 10 foot fourth and about 6,000 relics—part of an old army, swords, glass, buckles, etc., which are now on exhibition in a large case in Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth. The house was built in 1628 and is the oldest relic known today of the early Pilgrim colony."

From Plymouth the Howlands will leave for Buffalo and will be home Saturday. They will be especially anxious to be back in Birmingham. Dr. Howland writes, to catch the progress of their new home which is being built on Lakeview avenue and which is expected to be completed by Dec. 1.

THIS AND THAT

Canadian money; this is a war-time measure, not intended to hurt the feelings of the U. S. at all. Right next to the air field at Trenton are many farms, as our coach rolled away from Camp Trenton, where we had just observed men and boys engaged in developing the necessary tools of destruction for war. I saw a farmer riding his grain reaper, performing the tasks of peace—or, indeed, isn't he doing his bit to keep fighting men in bread? Have you not noticed, in your travels in Canada, the wealth of flowers in nearly every yard? It reminded me of those English landscapes, and also of Elbert Hubbard's declaration that "if I had but a dollar I'd spend half of it for a hyacinth" . . . Nine out of ten Canadians, when asked if Canada would be willing to be annexed to the United States, should say "Yes." They feel that they really are flesh and blood relatives of typical citizens of the United States, by language, ancestry, common democratic ideals. . . . There was no unusual sight in various towns to see young or middle-aged men in soldiers' uniforms walking along with their wives, the male holding a baby in his arms, often one or more children tagging on. . . . On our trip, the evening meal would generally start about eight o'clock, supper-making beginning at about 9:30. . . . In Ottawa I met Ross Brown, son-in-law of W. J. Cameron, of the Ford Motor Co., who is public relations director for the Canadian Foreign Exchange Control Board; he knows lots of people in this area. . . . and now for mention of the fine Canadian chaps who looked after us on the trip: R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways from Ontario, who has held his job for 26 years, and Knous (Grover C. Dillman, Frank F. Rogers, and many other Michigan road builders. . . . Douglas R. Oliver, Director of the Ontario Travel and Publicity Bureau; always smiling and generous; recollector of many years about the visit of the King and Queen of England to Canada and the U. S. A. a year and a half ago. . . . Jack Cannell, managing director of the Hotel Association of the Province of Ontario, first World War veteran of distinction, and once Canadian swimming champion; who is the living example of a perpetual smile. . . . H. Alex MacLennan, president Ontario Hotel Association and managing director of the Royal Carleton Hotel in Hamilton; "Mac," whose brilliant liveried coat and vest added sparkle to the trip, and whose wit brought many a smile on route. . . . Harmon E. Rice, publisher of the Forster, at Huntville, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, who often admitted that "after all, the best place in Canada is Huntville" . . . C. V. Charney, owner of a prosperous newspaper and publishing business at Brampton, who as a sideline avocation successfully acts as secretary of the above-mentioned press group, and who was eternally alert about the comfort of his American friends. . . . Henry Jones, delightfully cheerful press representative who handled most of the news and, with his assistant, photographer Duessa Heriot, obtained many pictures for release through many news agencies. . . . well, all in all, the seven days slipped by all too rapidly, and I hope, folks, after reading these articles, you'll act upon the impulse to visit Canada. . . . meet our good neighbors to the north. . . . enjoy their beautiful country. . . . and imbibe their present spirit of self-sacrifice as they fight their way for freedom and liberty, to the grand old tune of "There'll always be an England."
