Twenty-five miles per hour was set as the limit by the Commanding General when he thought that the maximum speed commensurate with the safety of the 20,000 troops in the area. It was found a car can easily stop to avoid a column of troops turning out on the highway. The starting out of a drive, or one of the 24-ton prime movers taking quickly.

Maneuvers Start
August 19, 1941
Editor, The Eclectic:
Well, maneuvers have started and that means 45 days and nights in the open air. That comes. We are situated about 100 miles from Camp Livingston and the 1st Cavalry. We left our camp last Sunday and arrived here in time to put our tents up before the rain. It never fails to rain when we pitch tents. We go out on maneuvers every day and have learned a lot on how our troops should operate. Yesterday, Thursday, we went on a night march and made the trip back to camp. We were given gas pumps and made the trip back to camp. We were given gas pumps and made the trip back to camp.

Water here is a great problem. We have to use it very sparingly. We are given a canteen with us and we have to use it very sparingly. We are given a canteen with us and we have to use it very sparingly. We are given a canteen with us and we have to use it very sparingly.

for a cool, refreshing night's sleep!

If you think that a bedroom as cool as a sleeping porch is a luxury—and far too expensive for your means—you haven't heard about the new method of house-cooling hundreds of your neighbors are now using. It's cooling by means of an ATTIC FAN.

What's the point of cooling an attic? you ask. "We don't sleep up there." Here is the reason. When your house soaks up heat all day, the attic becomes a bake-oven—with temperatures often reaching 130 degrees. That at night, this blanket of heat hangs immovably overhead, making the rooms below stifling and unbearable. Sleep is often impossible until the early hours of the morning. If there were some way to blow away this heat—to get the cool night air indoors—the house would cool off rapidly. This is exactly what an attic fan does. Prices range from $50 and up (installation extra).

After sundown, open all your windows and snap the convenient switch of the fan. Instantly its large, powerful blades start to sweep away the oppressive heat in the attic and pull off the warm air in the rooms below. A flood of cool night air is drawn in through the windows and circulated through the house. The temperature drops as much as 7 to 14 degrees (depending on outdoor temperatures) making your rooms comfortable. Cost of operation is only about 1/2 an hour.

Department stores, electrical dealers, and fan dealers will gladly give you full information about this low-cost method of house cooling. Stop in or telephone today. The Detroit Edison Company. (We do not install this equipment.)
