THIS AND THAT

case of boys and girls under 17 society's problem is more corrective in demand, than punitive; because Justice Courts do not have the machinery of probation or custody, it naturally follows that they cannot meet the complete requirements of future-conduct restrictions and parent-relationship so necessary for adolescent correction.

"So may I emphasize to you that with growing children the law needs a great deal more than mere punishment or penalty," continues the Judge. "It needs parental attention, including all that should go with it, encouragement, restrictions, incentive, discipline, and moral and religious training. I am firmly of the opinion that strict discipline and punishment, including strappings, etc., when appropriate, are a definite part of every child's training. Incidentally, there may be children who never in their lifetime need more than a "talking to." I was not one of them, and yet I believe my parents were exceptionally good parents."

Summing up his ideas to cut down juvenile traffic offenses, Judge Moore said that what are needed are:

More loss of driver's licenses.

An understanding that the rules of law of driving not only require are in driving, but also to drive as to avoid others guilty of negligence; children do not understand "the assured clear distance rule"; nor do they understand having a car under control."

More pressure on children and parents to respect the law.

School education on "how to drive a car" and "traffic Rules."

Better provision for solitary confinement in Jail.

A better use of probation and more adequate facilities therefor. The State has no adequate way of dealing with and caring for wayward minors, (17 and 18-year-old children.)

ness, but he said that it is the custom, in making a final dividend, for the Receiver to include the distribution of all assets; in view of the ownership situation, he explained, he will have to abide by the U. S. Comptroller's directions as to how and when he will make the last dividend payment.

A number of other Michigan receiverships are in the same situation that I am regarding last dividends," stated Mr. Ashbaugh. "I am going to do everything I can to speed this last dividend payment, of course. The final pay, however, is up to the Comptroller in Washington."

To speed up the final payment, perhaps the depositors may agree to waive claim to the fragmentary amount involved in the escheats classification; this, however, will be up to the depositors themselves.

suggestions will be welcomed, preferably in writing.

"Our city is close to Detroit and Pontiac, both of which are well known to the nation's enemies, so we will leave nothing undone to provide every necessary item of home defense."

Attend Meetings

City Manager D. C. Egbert attended a meeting of city managers of Royal Oak yesterday; Police Chief J. D. Hacker attended a Detroit session, and Fire Chief Vernon Griffith was in a parley at St. Clemens. Present activity centers about organization.

Both veteran organizations have announced their desire to be of use.

the guidance offered students, Dr. Shibler reported, particularly for girls. He will offer a report later.

Treasurer's Report

When the Dec. 10 payroll is met, and current bills are paid, the treasury will be $234.54 in the red, Treasurer John Harvey Rossman reported. Thirty thousand dollars has already been borrowed.

Tax statements went out Tuesday and revenue is expected to come in at once in time to meet the next payroll.

New Report Card

The elementary grade report card is not satisfactory, Dr. Shibler declared. A committee of school principals, P.T.A. delegates and teachers will draw up a new sort of card.

Football Cash Report

Five home football games and the Royal Oak game netted $1,560, netted the athletic fund $1,318.75, it was reported. The new lights cost $3,373.57 for which $2,500 was borrowed from the district's boiler replacement fund. Tuesday night, the board voted to repay this fund in the amount of $1,250. Football supports the minor sports.

Philippine and American islands. The 4th Marines leave Shanghai soon. The U. S. Asiatic Fleet Patrol under Admiral Richard Glassford is hopelessly trapped many miles up the Yangtse River in China. In case hostilities strikes, they will be aided by Gen. Chiang Kai Chek. In the meantime our main Battle Fleet, under Admiral Kimmel, is "somewhere . . . somewhere" meaning waiting for the signal of a hostile Japanese move. We are sure battle years we have spent in gunnery, tactics, engineering, science, communication and good old American initiative will bring us final victory.

The rainy season is over and the long dry season has set in (118° F today). I have been vaccinated against yellow fever, typhoid fever, tetanus, smallpox, cholera, etc. I have had my blood count and blood typing. I wear white shirt pants and white sport shirt while at drills and battle stations.

Describes His Work

I was given the job of following chores whenever we are in port. In charge of all engine repairs, dock master, custodian of all spare parts, handymen, tools, chief master-at-arms of enlisted personnel and head inspector of any work done by civilian yard workmen. I am executive officer, second in command of the fast motor torpedo boat I am attached to. I have had the thrill of maneuvering it in quadron formation at 45 knots. We go tearing along keeping our eyes on the flagship for signals and go through all possible torpedo attack drills. Night scouting is the one dread most because of the sticklish business of picking our way through mine fields, avoiding collisions, etc. (No lights).

When you have read this, send it on to Mother and Dad. I wrote them last, but this Azuac Clipper stamp cost 50c; so we better get our money's worth.

I have seen a ship at sea flying the flag of Free France. I saw a ship blown sky high by a mine two days ago. I see Chinese junks and sea-going sampans very often. I've seen three typhoons of no. 6 intensity (very bad). And 10 peaks of typhoon intensity. These things I've told you are not secret. I saw many more things at Java, in the Islands and on the main coast which are secret until after the war. . . .

election when the two-mill issue was defeated," he declared.

Mrs. Homer H. Dedo, said that parents were interested more in the fundamentals and that they were willing to postpone luxuries in shop and home-making courses.

Dubious

Trustee H. Ross Mack was dubious that the voters would approve a five-mill increase because a two-mill proposal was defeated this spring. "The turn-out was small as school elections go," he said.

President Lee E. Joslyn said, "I am not sure Birmingham needs a full-fledged junior high. A central school might be more efficient."

The new superintendent, Dr. Herman L. Shibler, admitted that the school can offer a more enriched and better program.

T. W. Eustis, 371 Linden, suggested that separate junior highs offer the academic courses, while shops combined Dr. Joslyn's building. Dr. Shibler will report on the matter Feb. 1.

Lou Hascall Heads Birmingham Gun Club

Louis Hascall, of 887 Oakland Avenue, was elected president of the Birmingham Gun Club at the annual business meeting of the club on Wednesday evening last week. Frank Vignos of Detroit, a member of the club of many years standing, was chosen secretary and treasurer. Robt. Pettit and Harry Smith were elected vice-presidents and field captain, respectively.

The club meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month on the grounds located off Woodward Avenue and counts many Oakland County and Detroit trapshooting enthusiasts among its members.

Ralph A. Main Honored by Group

Ralph A. Main, assistant city engineer, was elected first vice-president of the Oakland County Engineering Society at the annual business meeting held Tuesday at Royal Oak.

AWVS to Hear Of the Utilities

BY LILLIAN DIEDERICH

American Women's Voluntary Services will hold their next class meeting on Preparedness, Monday Dec. 15, at 1:30, in the Community House, Detroit Edison will be the speaker. Paul Perrifield, who will talk on "Power Systems in Defense." Frank Curtis, director in public relations of the Bell Telephone Co., will speak on "Communications in Defense." All women are invited.

WAR has been declared! Already West Coast city women are rallying to the cause. Every woman is anxious to do her part—to learn wherein she can help. What are you doing? Should major disaster strike at Detroit would you know how to care for evacuees flooding to the suburbs?

Armin Roemer, Detroit Housing research worker, was introduced to American Women's Voluntary Services Class on Preparedness Monday afternoon by Mrs. Charles D. McCall.

"Public Housing began in 1937" said Mr. Roemer, "to provide people of lower incomes living in slums, unsanitary, sub-standard dwellings, clean, modern, sanitary homes within their means.

Boy Scout Money Goes to England

Money realized from the sale of waste paper collected by Boy Scouts here will be sent to Birmingham, England, it was announced this week by Lamed G. Goodrich, commissioner.

Several troops collected paper last Saturday and others will continue this Saturday, it was announced.

To avoid bodily collisions, sailors on Uncle Sam's Navy ferryboat ladders run on the starboard, (right) side of the vessel and descent on the port, or left side.

Postage Rates Are Explained

An explanation of the postage rates applying to Christmas cards was repeated this week by Postmaster Joseph A. Hyrne.

Cards bearing no more than a signature and a written "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" may be mailed, unsealed, at the 1½ cent rate per card. This rate does not permit forwarding or returning to sender if the addressee has moved, and every year the Birmingham post office has to destroy about 2,000 undeliverable cards, the Postmaster said.

Letters destined for delivery in the city or on the rural routes may be sent first class at two cents an ounce. Mail which leaves the city office (including Bloomfield Hills) requires a three-cent stamp if sent first class. Air mail is six cents an ounce or fraction thereof; most foreign mail is five cents an ounce. Parcels declared, if the letter can be accepted at all.
