THIS AND THAT

Intelligent pieces of public information have been received from many electricians.

In our group discussion of traffic problems, a representative of the Police Department, Sgt. Grant Springfield, stated that local enforcing officers and justice courts are powerless to prosecute all offenders under 17 years of age; and that too many juvenile judges, under whose jurisdiction such cases go, do not lend them, with the result that a great many offenders actually do not acquire those social disciplines that courts may inflict on adults under similar situations.

In my letter to Judge Moore I cited this police appraisal of the problem; he admitted that his Court does have sole jurisdiction of minors under 17, but denied the charge of inefficiency. He reiterated his often declared desire to cooperate with all County law-enforcing officers in the prevention of the offense.

Said Judge Moore: "It should be understood that the number of juvenile courts is not more numerous than other courts; in fact, it is usually more stringent in its enforcement. But, rather than the cost of other courts, in the case of the juvenile court as a court of corrective character, as opposed to Criminal courts whose process is to determine guilt or innocence and the degree of penalty for the offense."

Judge Moore, while admitting the impractical limitations of juvenile courts, controls under existing law, also holds that in the case of boys and girls under 17 the problem is more corrective in demand, than punitive; because Justice Courts do not have the machinery of probation, custody, it naturally follows that they cannot meet the complete requirements of future-conduct restrictions and parent-relationship necessary for adolescent correction.

"So much I emphasize to you that with growing children the law needs a great deal more that mere punishment or penalty," continues the Judge. "It needs parental attention, including all the machinery of probation and restrictions, incentive, discipline, and moral and religious training. I am firmly of the opinion that strict discipline and punishment, including strappings, etc., when appropriate, are a definite part of every child's training. Incidentally, there may be children whose behavior is more corrective than a talking to. I believe not one of them, and yet I believe the majority were exceptionally good parents."

Summing up his ideas to cut down juvenile traffic offenses, Judge Moore said that what are needed are:

More loss of driver's licenses.
An understanding that the privileges of law of driving not only require care in driving, but also to drive as a good citizen, and that the license should go with it, encourage the parent to be sure that the child's behavior is not understood as "more pressure on children and parents to respect the law."
School education on "how to drive a car" and "Traffic Rules."
Better provision for solitary confinement in jail.

A better use of probation and more adequate facilities therefor. The State has no adequate way of dealing with and caring for wayward minors, 17 and 18-year-old delinquents.

Local Youths In Combat Areas

Several youths of this area are serving with U. S. armed forces in the Pacific war zone. Clifford McBride, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. McBride, former restaurant proprietor, is at Hickam Field, Hawaii. She has heard nothing from him and feels that he must be dead.

Clifford Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Porter, Lathrop Town, is in an infantry unit with the 28th Infantry Division.

GETS APPOINTMENT
Russell H. Fisher, Jr., 19-year-old son of the American Legion commander here, has received an alternate appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. He was advised this week by an Army doctor who is a freshman.

Puruit Squadron at Hickam Field and has probably already been in the air against the Japanese. Albert L. Nelson, 21 years old, son of the Rev. Joseph B. Nelson, Baptist pastor, is in the air corps, where in the Pacific. He is a bombardier.

Robert Freeman, son of Mr. Matthew Freeman, notified his mother that after four weeks in the naval hospital at Portsmouth, Va., after a minor injury, he is heading for the West Coast to join his unit of the Marine Corps.

There were rumors about Birmingham that the 210th Coast Artillery unit in Chicago, of which several Birmingham youths are members, has been ordered to one of the coasts.

Seek Blood Donors For Emergency Use

Oakland County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is sponsoring establishment of a blood bank in cooperation with the Oakland County chapter, American Red Cross.

Names and addresses are being sought of persons who will donate to give one pint of blood. As soon as 300 volunteers are ready, the Red Cross will bring it to the blood bank in Chicago, of which the blood and take to Detroit for some other point for storage, according to the Oakland County committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

This bank is being built up solely for emergency use in connection with disaster and war. It is said many units were lost during the first World War which might have been saved had such a bank been available.

Volunteers are invited to write to R. K. Lewis, 1220 Hickman drive or telephone 3739.

Welding of Tank To Reduce Noise

ation of closed bank accounts under the escheats law, which may require up to a year of time through the courts.

Up to U. S. Supreme Court
Accounts that were dormant or claimed for seven years prior to the initiation of court proceedings under the escheats law of Michigan, the property of the State Michigan has initiated court proceedings to effect its share of these accounts.

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that the state of Michigan is entitled to a share of these accounts, but he said that it is the duty of the Receiver to make a distribution of all assets, including the escheats situation, to the U. S. Comptroller's office as to how and when he will pay the last dividend payment.

A number of other Michigan escheats cases are in the same situation that I am regarding last night," stated Mr. Ashbaugh, "and to do everything possible to get this last dividend payment. The final say, however, will be the Comptroller's office."

Mr. Ashbaugh said that he will appear in the final payment, and that he will appear in the final payment, and that he will appear in the final payment.

AWWS to Hear of the Utilities
BY LILLIAN OEDERICH

American Women's Voluntary Service will hold their next meeting on Preparedness, Monday Dec. 15, at 1:30, in the Community House, Detroit. Edith M. Byrnes, a speaker, Paul Perfield, who will talk on "Power System in Detroit," Frank Curtis, director of public relations of the Bell Telephone Co., will speak on "Communication in Defense." All women are invited.

WAR has been declared. All right West, I feel city women are anxious to do their part to learn, where she can help. What does Detroit, Detroit, an action strike at Detroit would you know how to care for evictions resulting to the suburbs?

Miss Lorraine, Detroit Housing Board, Detroit, Michigan, was introduced to American Women's Voluntary Service Class on Preparedness Monday afternoon by Mrs. Charles D. McCall.

"Public Housing began in 1937," said Mrs. McCall, "and it is one of the lowest income people of lower income living in dilapidated, insanitary, substandard buildings, slums, tenements, tenement houses within their range."

you Hascall Heads Ham Gun Club

Lois Hascall, of 887 Oakland road, was elected president of Birmingham Gun Club at the annual business meeting of the club Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ashbaugh.

Frank Vignoe of Detroit, member of the club of many years, was elected secretary and Mrs. Vignoe was elected vice-president. Mrs. Perfield, respectively.

The club meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month at the grounds located off Adams boulevard. The club has a membership of 100 and is open to all gun enthusiasts among its members.

Postage Rates Are Explained

An explanation of the postage rates applying to Christmas cards was repeated this week by Postmaster Joseph A. Byrne.

Cards bearing no more than a signature and a written "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" may be mailed, unsealed, at the cent rate per card. This rate does not permit forwarding or returning to sender if the address has moved, and every year the Birmingham post office has to destroy about 2,000 undeliverable cards.

The Postmaster said: "Letters destined for delivery in the city or on the rural routes may be sent first class at two cents an ounce. Mail which leaves this post office (including Bloomfield Hills) requires a three-cent stamp if it weighs first class. Air mail is at cents an ounce or fraction thereof; most foreign mail is five cents an ounce. Byrne declared, if the letter can be accepted at all."
