Speaker to Discuss Miss West's Opus

Rebecca West's magnificent two-volume story of "The Slaves" which has been called an "adventure through time as well as space" and which has no counterpart in all literature, will be given special emphasis by Miss Jeanne Hornel in her lecture, "Books to Share—The Best of the New Books from a Holiday Avenue," third in the University of Michigan extension series on "The New Books and Plays." The lecture, sponsored here by St. Catherine's Guild, will be given at 8 o'clock, Monday afternoon, Dec. 15, at the Baldwin Public Library. Another book which will receive special attention is the

Legion Auxiliary Holds Mid-Winter Conclave in Pontiac

Representing the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary at the annual mid-winter conference of presidents and secretaries held in Pontiac last Saturday and Sunday were Mrs. Wylie Parrish and Mrs. Charles Devitt. State chairman presented their plans, and instructions were given officers for the coming year, with Mrs. A. V. Vinne of Greenville, state president, presiding at the sessions. Membership enrollment is the highest at this date than at any time in the state. The local unit already has enrolled forty-five of its members, with a quota set at fifty-eight. However the local unit officers expect to exceed the quota before Dec. 25.

Annual Christmas Tea Follows Meeting at Community House

Special speaker for the December Branch of the American Association of University Women at 2 o'clock in the Community House Monday evening was a chemical engineer, and at this time is actively engaged in experimenting with a new relation to chemical aviation. She is well fitted to discuss her subject, "History of Airplane Making," since she is a general student of world affairs. The speaker was given a group of international affairs for the A. A. U. W. in New Jersey. Mrs. Fradkin also gave a two-week course at the Williamson Institute of Politics recently in Chicago. She is a member of the Women's League of Women Voters, the National Council on the Cause and Cure of War, and was a delegate to the 1937 Conference of the League of Women Voters. Mrs. Fradkin is also author of "Air Menace and the Answer," "The History of Air," "Its Possibilities and Limitations." Immediately following the tea, the club's annual Christmas party will be given. Plans are being made at the time of Mrs. Fradkin at 8 o'clock Monday afternoon. Members to attend this luncheon: Gaston, 1469, and Mrs. Fradkin, 1469, are taking reservations.

Miss Allen, H. P. Brumder Exchange Vows at St. James

The marriage of Mary Mead Allen, daughter of Mrs. Winthrop Dwyer Allen, and the late Mr. Alphonso George Brumder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Brumder, of Milwaukee, Wis., was solemnized at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the St. James Episcopal Church. The Rev. Warner L. Forgyth and the Rev. Harvey E. Parke, of Amherst, Mass., officiated of the bride officiated. Ferns and white chrysanthemums flanked the front of the choir stalls and white chrysanthemums and snazdagoes were used in the gold altar-rails. Stately white fabric was chosen by Miss Allen for her bridal gown. The bride was fitted, having long sleeves and a square neck, and was banded with blue beads and pearl embroidery. Her very full skirt, made in a ruffled train, the bride's long veil of tulle was held in place by a rose pointed lace cap topped by a veletian lace butterfly worn by Mrs. Allen on her wedding veil. The bridal bouquet was of white camellias and gardenias. An apparatus like formed the gown worn by Ruth Hargreaves. The bride's only attendant, Mrs. Brumder plan to make their home in Milwaukee, on return from a southern wedding trip. Try an Eastern Classified Ad for quick results.
