Books Are Printed In Large Type For Tired Eyes

By LINDO MOORE

No need to go without books because your eyes are worn from straining at finely printed tomes. Books For Tired Eyes, compiled by Charlotte Matson and Dorothy Wurtzburg, has been added to the Baldwin Library collection.

The list includes novels, books on current affairs, travel, biography, adventure, all printed in 12 point type or larger. There are a number of books suitable for children also listed.

Sea Shell Collection

In the display case in the Library is a collection of sea shells, arranged by Crabbrook Institute of Science. Not ordinary little snail houses, either, but great beautiful shapes gleaming with color. Some come from American shores, others from exotic tropical waters. With them is a card inviting returning vacationists to donate unusual shells to the Institute.

Essayist Busy

Last week, Birmingham high school students worked feverishly on their entries for the V. F. W. Auxiliary national essay contest on the subject "One Nation Indivisible."

Baldwin Library cooperated by bringing together books on citizenship, history, foreign affairs, American ideals and kindred subjects. Adult readers showed much interest in these books reserved for the students. Now that the contest has closed, the books will be kept together for a time and are available to the general public.

New Magazines

Two new magazines have been added to the list of Library subscriptions. One is Aviation, a monthly periodical offering articles of current interest on aeronautical subjects. Included are items on national defense, plans and designs for new airplanes, factory production, and allied matters.

Also new to the Library through a magazine of many years' standing, is the Living Age, also a monthly. Issues have been delivered since January, thanks to the generosity of some friend of the library who prefers to remain anonymous. The magazine publishes excellent articles on current national and foreign affairs.

Saturday Club Play To Honor Washington Announcement Says

The dramatic group in the second section of the Community House Saturday Club will give a short play this Saturday in honor of George Washington, during the assembly period.

This group of children is from Adams, Pierce and Holy Name Schools.

Bill Merrill, Saturday Club dramatics leader, wants to remind casts and choruses for both "The Pied Piper" and "Sammy's Nightmare" that they must attend rehearsals regularly for the next four Saturdays if they want to be in the final production March 15.

State Social Register Will Be Published

This book is published to order and is bound in blue with a newly designed crest and lettering in gold. The family name of the subscriber is imprinted in gold on the cover.

Miss Foster and Mrs. Clark have been instructors in the social graces in Detroit for many years.

Among the Bible citations is the passage (Prov. 16:3): "Thy purposes will be established."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 278): "Immortal ideas, pure, perfect, and eternal, are reflected by the divine Mind through divine Science, which corrects error with truth, commands spiritual thoughts, divine concepts, to the end that they may produce harmonious results."

Rev. C. H. Cadigan Talks to Exchange

People are too prone to worry about "What's wrong in Congress" and do not give enough concern to problems right at home, the Rev. Charles H. Cadigan, rector of Christ Church Cranbrook, told The Exchange Club Tuesday.

"There are too many people Christian in name only," he declared. "If people are no different outside the church than in, if Christians do business are no more ethical than non-Christians, there is cause to wonder what the troubled is," he said.

"When I think of my own shortcomings, I am reminded of the Chinese prayer, 'O Lord, revive the church beginning with me.'

Hope for the future lies in small groups fervent in their desire to be real Christians and real citizens, he declared. Society must be rejuvenated at its center, he said.

The annual February Ladies' Night party of the club will be next Tuesday evening.

Bits of Birmingham

Nellie Hurley Minnie, able Society Editor of The Eccentric for the past two years, is leaving us a couple of weeks for a new journalistic venture. She'll be with the home institution of the Detroit News. "The entire personnel of The Eccentric wishes her well.

One of the most touching cases ever to come before the City Commission was that of Harry Jordan, Livernois road, who was rejected by the police when he sought permission to drive a taxi-cab. One of his hands is missing. The chief said he'd even be executed he was stricken of the use of the DKW at some armed man," Jordan said. He revealed that he was injured in a West Virginia coal mine in 1937 and had been unable to find steady work since. City officials, although sympathetic toward the man, denied his request, but Harold Orson intervened the next Tuesday morning and now Jordan will be helped in some way.

Rain which fell near the front door of The Eccentric will eventually find its way to the River Rouge and finally past the Ford factory to the Detroit River, far to the south. Rain falling on our property on Hamilton street will flow east into the Rouge drain to the Clinton river past Mount Clemens and eventually to Lake St. Clair, far to the east. The route through Birmingham runs right near our door.

A newsreel shot screened at the Birmingham Theatre this week showed Nelson Rockefeller discussing a new piece of wood sculpturing at Rockefeller Center in New York City done by Carl Milles of Cranbrook. Most curious thing about the whole mechanical setting was the fact that a small girl, seated on a stool, was carved from the trunk of a real girl. Sunday night, according to Theatre Manager Howard Hollis, Mrs. Milles was in the audience.

A Birmingham garage called police and informed them that a strange-looking car was backed on their lot. It came another call: "It's OK, boys; the car is ours." That must indicate something about the state of business. People are trading in their cars to the dealers can't keep track of them.

A city official called police: there's a truck in the alley between Pierce and Merrill "throwing papers!" Police dashed to the scene to stop the disorderly procedure and found it was one of the city's own trucks.

Comes a letter from Mrs. J. C. Donaldson, of 300 North Birch road, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., a native Birminghamite, resident who once lived at 1415 Lakeside road. She tells of their new apartment house containing five apartments and five hotel rooms situated on the Intracoastal Waterway. She's having quite a nice winter and the season is getting into its stride slowly but surely," she wrote.

Police are holding for the owner a pair of child's glasses found on West Maple avenue last week.

Bill Merrill, recently graduated Baldwin senior, is having a good time at Ray Doan's baseball school at Bakaka, Fla. Bob Feller is one of the instructors, and recently in team managed by Feller went to Jacksonville for an exhibition game and Bill played center field. He related in a recent letter to his mother that an old baseball friend given him some suggestions about an improved batting stance and that it has done much for his hitting.

Mrs. W. F. Tighe, of Birmingham, "mailed the news wide Wednesday. In a story from Lansing, where the Fourth Annual Citizens Conference was being held, the Associated Press reported her committee as saying that matrimony was one "out" for incompetent teachers.

Not long ago this Wanderer raised the question: Are doorbells at work here? Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell, Bloomfield road, in Bloomfield Township, are sure of it. Tuesday night, a couple of weeks after the new doorbell was installed, "This is a social animal which never leaves the vicinity of the house, was lured away and stolen. "This is the second time we have had a dog taken," she declared. Many dogs have been reported missing in Birmingham police but only one person has expressed the opinion of the Chief Hardy told us Wednesday. He is not sure that an organized theft ring is working. At any rate, Mrs. Mitchell urges people to keep an eye on their dogs.

Official Draft Order List

Names of 96 men were listed in the columns last week with the dates on which they were to receive their questionnaires. However, the dates have been changed. Numbers 1121 to 1152 will not get their questionnaires until next week and 1153 to 1184 not until the first week of March, according to present plans. Until further notice, the Draft Board is mailing questionnaires to only 32 men per week.

"There is too much love in fiction," says a literary critic. Judging by the large number of breach of promise cases, the reverse is also too true.—Passing Show.

Mayor Endorses Registration Day For War Veterans

Full endorsement of the American Legion nationwide plan to register all Legionnaires and World War veterans generally on a voluntary basis, for any possible future national defense service, has been today by Mayor John E. Marr of Birmingham.

The local registration will be conducted by the Charles Edwards Post No. 31 of the American Legion.

Commander Carl W. Eley of the local post already has started the machinery for the local registration in motion. He has announced the appointment of C. F. Charlton as chairman of a special national defense registration committee of the Post.

Registration will take place at the American Legion Home, 246 S. Woodward Avenue.

Mayor's Endorsement

Following a conference with Commander Eley of the local American Legion post, Mayor Marr issued the following statement:

"For more than 20 years the American Legion has been one of the foremost champions of patriotism and has had the record of being a high type of community service.

"It is inspiring to find the American Legion in this hour of national emergency mobilizing all its assets for the good of the country. War veterans constitute a huge backlog of manpower, experience, training and devotion in our national defense.

"To catalog these qualities so that they may be quickly available to our government authorities in preparing our nation for total defense, is not only a wise and practical measure, but it is also another demonstration of the American Legion's patriotic efforts."

"It is my hope that all World War veterans in our community will register."
