Shadow Blots Out Italian Monument

Symbolic of British success in Africa, the shadow of a bayonet-carrying Australian soldier falls across an Italian Victory monument erected at Sidi Barrani before troops of British recaptured the Egyptian town.

Another Way
Another way to refresh would be to quit paying salaries to the unemployed who occupy posts in public offices.—Arkansas Gazette.

Mother (on a streetcar)—"If you don't sit down just stop your wiggling; I'm going to spank you."
Wife—"If you sit down, you'll go to hell; if you don't, you'll go to hell."

Edison was a wicked business man, too. By working his hours as long as he could, he was in no other ever did, but he was quality of million.—Newspaper Journal.

Now the steelplants have a robot pointing machine that saves them the danger of working at their dangerous tasks. It is an arrangement of magnified drums, operated from the ground by the controls, and does the work of several men.

Three or four tons of oil are taken from a whole of average size.

One-fifth of all patents now issued by the United States Patent Office are for automobile devices.

A washable furniture cover, having a knitted appearance, contains no rubber but is sufficiently elastic to fit chairs of different size and shape.

After ten years of development, the Standard Oil of New Jersey is planning to invest about $14,000,000 in a plant that will be capable of producing 2,000 tons of synthetic rubber annually.
