

Pontiac Orchestra Opens Its Season At Greek Theatre

By FENTON R. MATHEWS The Pontiac Philharmonic Orchestra opened its second season at the Greek Theatre at Cranbrook Saturday evening.

thing must have a military connotation these days. Concluding came a Strauss waltz, "Vienna Life," that was pleasingly acceptable for the reason that the most carried itself along much better than in the preceding numbers.

MR. AND MRS. GARRETT W. ARNOLD, and two sons, BILL and JIM, plan to spend the Fourth week-end with Mr. Arnold's parents, the Henry Arnolds, of Sherwood Forest, Mich.

The BRIMMINGHAM BREWSTER plan to spend the week-end at Glenn Lake and Mackinac Island. Before leaving, however, Mr. Brewster will take part in the Fourth of July Cross-Pointe Regatta. He is sailing with Morrill Dunn.

MRS. BENJAMIN BREWSTER and her two daughters, ALISON and BETSEY are leaving early in July for Marion, on Buzzard's Bay, Mass., where they will spend the summer vacation with Mrs. Brewster's parents.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH McLEESE will have a week-end at a metronome of the group. This reviewer would much rather see and hear fragrant mistakes from time to time but have the music flowing and spontaneous rather than pedantic and studied. It enervates one on hot summer nights. Music is expressive and should be joyous, happy and with the appearance of freedom.

Clara and Nicolls, soprano, singing numbers of musical accompaniment, "Vol to Sapeto O Mamama" by Mascagni; "Visi di Arre, visi d'Amore" by Puccini and for an encore "The Last Rose of Summer."

Miss Nicolls is a young singer with possibilities. The numbers chosen were ambitious and well performed. The Haydn "Military Symphony" came next and while one would have to search for the military quality it was no doubt chosen for the name, since every
