USE COOL COMFORT

to draw customers into your store

In the heat of midsummer, retail stores, restaurants, etc. find that the "north pole" and the "magnetic pole" are one . . . that cool, invigorating air is a magnet to attract customers and improve business. It is one of the best sales tonics ever discovered to combat summer slump.

Alert merchants are now using air conditioning to boost sales, to attract new customers, to hold present customers. They are using it to overcome location difficulties, to lure trade from competitors. They are using it as an advertising feature, to add prestige. They are using it to convert basements, alcoves, and "dead spots" into profitable space.

They are using it to reduce hot-weather spoilage of perishables. They are using it to reduce damaged goods due to perspiration stains and handling losses, and costly "clearances" on dust- and dirt-marked merchandise. They are using it to lessen noise, and to reduce cleaning expense. They are using it to induce customers to linger—thereby creating more purchases and increasing the unit size of the sale. They are using it to promote greater efficiency and alertness among the sales force.

How many of these things can air conditioning do for YOU? It will pay you to call your air conditioning dealer today and obtain complete information. He will gladly make a survey of your cooling requirements and give you a free estimate. We do not sell or install air conditioning equipment. The Detroit Edison Company.

possibly because of it, the summer recreation program continues to draw crowds of boys and girls. Last week the attendance at the play centers and Barnum Pool again smashed all previous records. The total cumulative attendance was 6,188, pool attendance accounting for 948 of this number. Forty-five people attended the first mixed class for adults Wednesday evening. Last week, too, the first public swimming exhibition was held before a capacity crowd of 250 spectators.

Concentrate on Handicraft

Because of the hot weather the playground supervisors concentrated on handicraft work, which includes leather, woodwork, and weaving. So far this season over 100 pot-holders, 50 coin purses, 25 key holders, and a dozen belts have been made at the various play centers.

The twilight softball league is becoming increasingly popular with young adults in town, for every night finds more and more of them attending the games at either Torrey or Barnum play centers.

Last week's street dance, under the direction of Faye Anderson, Quarton supervisor, was one of the most successful of the season. Serving as hosts and hostesses on this occasion were Supt. and Mrs. Howard D. Crull, Mrs. J. N. Hadjisky, Mrs. and Mrs. Wilbur Johnstone, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bowland Quinn. This Friday the street dance will be held at Baldwin High School at 8 o'clock as usual, and will be sponsored by Supervisor Jane Gibbons and Assistant Supervisor John Brown of Torrey Play Centre. Hosts and Hostesses this week will be Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Fred McMahon.

Next week will be Tournament Week at all play centers. Tournaments will be held in ping pong, horseshoes, tennis, bowling, croquet. The winners from these tournaments will compete for the city championship in their various sports on Aug. 15, the last day of the Summer Program.

Honor Play Centers

Two Honor Play Centers are cited this week by Director Lloyd Chapman, the first being Adams again. Under the direction of Mrs. Mary Hartwick and her assistant, Don Fisher, the Adams Play Center held its own aluminum drive. Almost every one of the children brought at least one piece of aluminum ware, which was later turned over to the Boy Scouts. The second Honor Play Center is Quarton. Supervisor Faye Anderson, assisted by June Osborne, has the distinction of chalking up the best average attendance for Quarton of all the play centers, averaging 30 children daily so far this season.

THIS AND THAT

serve the American way of life" fail to evidence in our everyday lives the very liberties for which we might fight.

Shackled by our own selfishness, self-interest, citizen disinterest and apathy, we live under a form of available self-government, yet fail to be self-governed.

Somewhere along the line of our individual and mass development in America we have failed to perceive, or to receive, enough of the spirit of early Colonial stoutheartedness to be, in practice, the good citizens we are supposed to be.

So we are born and live through struggle and then we are no more; most of our knowledge is of the world, worldly; most of our information is distorted after, and often before, it enters our mental processes; there is so much that we ought to be interested in, that we ought to know, to which we pay so little time and attention. Heaven help us if we, too, have to renounce the weapons of reason and discussion and willing compromise and begin the terrible human carnage known as WAR.

Glasses for His Chickens

Held in place by a metal band that passes through the nostrils, red glasses with light aluminum rims are worn by white leghorns on the farm of Wm. G. Tallmadge, Lynxville, Wis. The specs were adopted to prevent the killing of chickens by hens who develop a cannibal tendency at the sight of blood on a wounded chicken.

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 3.

The Golden Text (Zephaniah 3:17) is: "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy; he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Psalms 91:1) is the following: "Lord, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face. For there is not a faithful word in their mouth; their inward part is very wickedness; their throat is an open sepulchre; they flatter with their tongue. Destroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counsels; cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions; for they have rebelled against thee."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 454): "Love inspires, illumines, and gladdens. Love is heaven. Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and song."

Soldiers Prefer Feminine Attire for Sweethearts

What to Give Boys in Army

To answer a growing number of requests for information on appropriate gifts to send to soldiers of the expanding Army of the United States, Headquarters Sixth Corps Area in Chicago, today compiled a list among enlisting civilians, officers and enlisted men, from a soldier's point of view. It was agreed that any gifts for the sergeant's comfort and enjoyment would be acceptable. It was suggested, however, that gifts be small and easily portable.

Among the desirable things to eat were recommended such articles as candies and cookies, as only mothers, sweethearts and wives can make them. Good gifts found by well-marked opinion differences, were:

Among the suggested gifts were tennis balls, tennis rackets, golf balls, golf clubs, golf shoes, pajamas, bath robes, garters, shoes, slippers, athletic clothing, bathing suits, razors, shaving material, cigarettes, tobacco, pipes, matches, lighters, fountain pens, pencils, pocket knives, sewing kits, tan shoe polish, clothes brushes, metal polish, handkerchiefs, soap, cologne, photo frames, postage stamps, stationery, fountain pens, automatic pencils, writing tablets, combs, nail files, nail clippers, and subscriptions to home newspapers, college and high school publications.

Recipe Is Given For Keeping Your Mind Off Weather

By LINDO MOORE

Recommended formula for days when the thermometer flirts with the 100 mark? one deck chair advantageously placed in shady garden (sit in it, of course); one pitcher (large) of lemonade climbing over; one book, not too profound.

Result: You look and feel as fresh as the May morn, while your mind, that worry about the current situation and the Rise in the Cost of Living, wonder how you do it.

Suggestions from Baldwin Library staff that not-too-heavy summer fiction include:

Yes and Bread Alone, by M. F. Doner. Story of three women living happily in the strangely commercialization and neighborness of Greenwich Village.

The Sound of Wings, by Arthur Goodrich. An exciting novel in which a central figure, Tom Cassidy, is permanently affected by the events between two World Wars. Then one way of life changed slowly and inevitably to another.

The Kingdom and the Kingdom, by A. J. Cronin. The author of "The Citadel" takes as the theme for his new novel the life of a Scottish family struggles against ignorance, superstition, and the worldliness of his superiors, makes an unusual story.

Pillars of Gold, by Lucille Salk Edgerton. Colorful and romantic tale of early days in California.

Mrs. Tim Carries On, by D. E. Stevenson. Whimsical story told in story form of an English officer's wife. Between accounts of the children's doings, innocuous teas and ordinary domestic events, she chronicles an exciting story of England at war.

Wilma Rogers, by Sophia Engstrand. Being appointed head librarian of a small town brought complications that seemed almost insurmountable to Wilma.

A few "whodunits" for times when hot weather makes something to take your mind off it an absolute necessity, are as follows: Murder of the Fifth Columnist, by Leslie Ford. Famous radio commentator and columnist, dubbed "Fifth columnist" gorily eradicated.

Case of the Turning Tide, by E. Stanley Gardner. Double murder on yacht looked hopeless until Grandpappy Wiggin found out effects of salt water on rubber bathing suits.

The Nursing Home Murder, by Ngaio Marsh. Mystery story with a medical background.
