EARLY FEEDING HELPS GRASS

If you were asked to name one of the most important things for a gardener to do in the early spring, it would be to feed the lawn...

Of course this early feeding doesn't directly kill the weeds. But it does do this: It keeps the grass growing so fast that the weeds are crowded out...

Therefore to combat weeds, give your lawn an early feeding this year, making application in late February or early March...

Not only is this early application beneficial from the standpoint of combating weeds, but it is also beneficial for the plants themselves...
