

These people whose great thoughts are read in imperishable books generally understand and appreciate the kind of writing that is done. They find entertainment and enjoyment from the stars and the moon, and from the stars and the moon, and from the stars and the moon...

Some Random Observations Made in Southern Arizona. U. S. A. Since returning home last week I have been asked a number of questions about the southwest that may interest you. Here are some observations that may interest you.

Driving long distances in the nation's southwestern States of New Mexico, Arizona and much of California, is quite different than driving in our more populous east. Towns and cities in the southwestern area are few and far between...

Speaking of radio stations in the southwest—certainly gets into the heart of the matter. The first program is broadcasted and then they become a bore—when they come on the air to advertise a dozen different kinds of tonic for man, woman, and child...

Lots of Highway "Dips". No doubt in previous letters about this southern region, I mentioned that the roads, over the entire distance to Tucson and beyond, were in a state of disrepair and kept in good shape. Of course, you must remember that these roads are the southern route that goes through Yuma, Dallas, El Paso, Tucson, Yuma, and beyond...
