Gowns That Drape Again Fashionable

Ladies, at candlelight, are again wearing seductively draped gowns of silk jersey, crepe or sheer for both formal and informal occasions. Favorites feature draped kimono sleeves that often wind into a little bolero in back or draped skirt with a pulled-through-the-belt look, such as a white silk jersey dinner dress with gold and Arabic script trimming the self belt and work with a matching white silk jersey tubular. Another stunning model also in white silk jersey has a draped bodice, three quarter sleeves and a ruffled waistline. The skirt, which has a spray of star lilies in white and soft green painted on the side front.

Gaily colored shawls are twisted and manipulated into bra top evening gowns. In the South American way a bronze green chiffon is worn over a Peruvian red in a gown with brief draped kimono sleeves, the bra top drapes repeated at the hips. The two colors are again applied in two shades. Modest in similar silhouette is a silk chiffon gown in fuchsia and green printed in a lovely wheat and flower design.

New Notes for Spring Dresses

Take your choice for spring—the military motif or the floral motif. Both will be popular! Elizabeth Russell, left, chose a silk crepe dress patterned with red dahlias and a white background. Harriet Bin wears a nautical navy crepe dress with white silk tape trimmings. The knife-pleated skirt, striped dickey, cuffs and skirt border add a breezy nautical air. Both are $65 stars.

Young Fashions for the Important Woman

YOUNG WOMEN'S GOWNS are made of the softest materials. The soft shawl collar, the slash pockets, the large buttons, the shawl collar, the slash pockets, the large buttons, the shawl collar, the slash pockets, the large buttons.

New Inspiration In Handkerchiefs

At Bloch Freres, international famous handkerchief house, translated successfully from Paris to New York, artists sketch and color, experiment and exclaim with the creative skill and unbounded enthusiasm that is typically French—and a significant cultural gain to America.

So many seemingly unrelated bits center into the curious handkerchief—design inspiration! On a work-table near the drawing boards, are little piles of handkerchiefs melting tones of blue, pink, beige, bisque and pearl, a series of

New Styles In Wedding Gowns

To have and to hold—a wedding gown that's picture pretty is the desire of every bride-to-be. Gowns of satin, tulle or sheer, that will mark her the loveliest bride of her set, a gown to hand down with pride to daughters and grand-daughter for their days of days.

Those who trip the bridal path in heirloom silks this spring will wear shorter skirts; that is floor length or just above, but trimless. The preferred sleeves are long and vertically shirred so that they fall in soft horizontal folds the length of the arm. Dropped, shoulders often, filled in with a transparent

THE New Edition of Florence Walsh Dickey

STARTING as a sweater-accessory for the smart campus crowd, the Florence Walsh "Dickey" has become a smash success! Now we present the latest edition of this young fashion—the V-neck in crisp white rayon shirakin. (The Peter-Pan-collared model also comes in pink, yellow, or light blue, medium length.)

After all, 70% of things count in that well-known look—the girl or woman whose complexion is clear, showing a glow, who is cool and water, and who is clothed in a chic, and well-worn fur, who carries herself well and who expresses confidence in the ease of make-up.

With every designer searching the home ground for inspiration this season, it is quite natural that America's favored radio shows should play a featured part in American Fashion. Clever daytime programs inspired by such national radio favorites as Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny, Ika Chase, Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, and the Alka Seltzer Barn Dance, have been made up into exclusive spring lines.

The Greeks would do doubt have a word for the new Grecian line wedding gown, so smart for spring and made in silk chiffon with flowing, shirred, bishop sleeves and the new low neckline.

Wedgones are still in evidence and a favorite. On the whole, leaders are before and abounding in every popular.
