

Village Players' Comedy Enjoyed By Three Crowds

The old cliché, "stole the show" is about the best description of Jack Hasabarger's performance as Morris Schneer, a young Jewish lawyer, in the Village Players' production of "See My Lawyer" last weekend. He kept the audience in a continual good humor with his character portrayal.

Dyke Dweley, Wayne Pease and Clark Pardee, did a convincing job as the three young attorneys. Lee Russo, and O'Rourke, respectively, who first had no idea they were a gold mine—the playboy, Bobby Carlin turned out to be an unknown quantity in terms of trouble, however, keeping all three busy as the three young attorneys, completely occupied.

The joke interest was built around a dragging romance between Mrs. Winningham, an Fay Finkel, and Arthur Lee. In the first scene Lee refused to marry her because he wasn't earning any money, later because he was too busy watching Bobby Carlin. When Carlin abducted Fay in an attempt to marry her, Lee immediately came through and the last scene was one of those they lived happily ever after" acts.

In the meantime Fay Bukok was doing very well with his part of S. B. Jameson, Carlin's family lawyer, who for sentimental reasons, only wanted his client Carlin back. Clark Pardee, as O'Rourke, was another source of amusement as he changed character from lawyer to window washer from one minute to the next.

Fay's young brother, Irving Finkel played by Bill Martin deserves credit for his work as a well-meaning Jewish stocker. For Lee, Russo, and O'Rourke, his antics as well as those of the following children Carlin were very well received by the audience. Jack Hart also put in a good piece of work with a rather difficult speaking part as Ibero Kato, Jay Chapfuter to Carlin.

The show ended happily with the love interest taken care of. Carlin returned to his family lawyer, Jameson, and a fat fat of money for Lee, Russo, and O'Rourke. All roles were polished off with a professional finish—in fact, three nights of full houses testify to an unknown quantity in terms of trouble, however, keeping all three busy as the three young attorneys, completely occupied.

REDUCED Long Distance Rates Effective Saturday, April 26

● Reduced rates on long distance calls from any Michigan Bell exchange to any other Michigan point more than 42 miles distant became effective on Saturday, April 26. Based on current volume of usage, that will mean savings of $700,000 annually to the company's customers.

Your Long Distance Operator will quote the new rate to any point requested.

As soon as possible after authorization by the Courts, refunds or credits, totaling $1,500,000, will be made for the difference between the old and new rates on such long distance calls made between August 1, 1938, and April 26, 1941. It will be some time before such refunds or credits can be made because of the great volume of work involved in checking more than 65,000,000 long distance calls in the accounts of 700,000 users.

Until the work of checking your account is completed, further information with respect to specific refunds or credits will be unavailable.
