Program Revealed For Adams School Music Festival

The program has been selected for the Adams Junior High School music festival to be held May 27 in the form of an open house.

The program will consist of a chorus of Adams girls singing, "Morning," an Italian folk tune; and "Country Gardens," Grainger.

The boys will present "Won't You Set Down?", "He Away Home," and "Water Boy," all Negro spirituals.

The music club will sing "Anna's Rosy Cheeks," and "Beautiful Dreamer," Foster.

A quintet of eighth grade girls made up of Martha Gruber, Betty Lou Shattuck, Mae Weldon, Janet Edmonds, and Geri Lou Smith will sing "In Silent Night," Brahms. A soprano solo will be sung by Ann Ballentine.

The entire group will present "Be Glad Your're an American" and "I Am An American."

The Adams orchestra will present "Hall of Fame March," Glenn; "Strauss Waltzes," arranged by Glenn; "Alumni March," Wellesley; "Jolly Bandits Overture," Zamecnik; "Valse Ballet," Wellesley; "Wedding Popes," Creighton; and a flute trio by Ralph Peabody, Dick Robertson, and James Coulter.

Game At Plymouth

Because of rain and fact that Birmingham doesn't have a baseball diamond of its own, the Plymouth game scheduled for last Friday will be played today at Plymouth.

The first steamboat on the Great Lakes, "Walk-In-The-Water" plied between Detroit and Buffalo in 1818.

Class Debates Merits Of Press, Radio

"Newspaper or Radio?" The speech class discussed this topic in a debate Monday, May 19.

The affirmative side, supported by Jane Bronson, Frank O'Toole and Marion Heckel upheld the radio as more valuable to man than the newspaper, while the negative side argued for the newspaper, Vernon Wendorph, Gus Ernst and Bill O'Donnell were on this team.

After careful consideration, the judges, all members of the class, decided that the affirmative side had shown stronger points than the negative.

History Class Hears Indian Woman

Through the efforts of Bob Fisher, the fourth hour history class heard Mrs. Elsie Pashenee.

Mrs. Pashenee spoke on the Indian and how he has been misjudged. Her purpose in speaking to the class was to clear up some of the questions that had come before the class.

Mrs. Pashenee is a member of the Ottawa tribe. She is the wife of Vinee Pashenee who is a member of the Chippewa tribe. They live on South Hospital road, Pontiac.

'As I See It'

By HUGH MACK

A funny feeling hit me the other day when I looked up and saw the lights and equipment that have been installed to make possible for Birmingham to have night football next year.

Think of the people who will be able to see Bahwan athletes go into action who haven't been able to get away from work before! Think of the thrill the boys will get playing under lights! Think of the other uses that the light will afford the students. This year's graduating class is planning to have its graduation exercises under the mazdas. Coach Whitney is thinking of arranging a track meet under the lights.

—o—

Every year at about this time, Coach Wurster and some of the boys who played football and are graduating begin to get the football bug. They begin to wonder just what next year's team will look like, who will play, and how the team "will do."

As a result of one of these get-togethers Walter the Weasel gave me a little inside done that you might be interested in hearing.

—o—

Coach Wurster gave 22 letters to football players this year and 15 of the 22 were seniors. That leaves seven lettermen back to bolster next year's team. Of course, along with the seven there are from 11 to 15 men who played last year in second team games and occasionally got in a first team game. Taking a look at next year's prospects we find the Coach may have high hopes of a heavy line and a good backfield.

—o—

Watts, a junior next year and a letter-man, has first crack at center position but he will have a few boys pushing him to keep his job. He weighs around 180.

Ballard, a regular powerhouse guard on this year's team, will be in there fighting for all he's worth again next year. His probable weight is around 175.

There are many young players fighting for the other guard positions. James, McCormick, Bissett, McCall and others will be after the job.

At around 185 or 190 pounds apiece (and all muscle) are Porter and Jones, two good tackles, each of them a letterman and capable of playing guard if necessary. They should prove valuable next year. Plank, a 200 pounder, is another likely prospect for tackle.

—o—

Martin at 180 pounds is the only letterman back at end; so there will be a scramble for a regular job at that position. Taylor and Dahlquist or one of their many rivals are likely to break in as regulars.

—o—

The backfield prospects seem to be a husky crew with experience and speed. Joe Armstrong, regular blocking back this year, will probably be switched to halfback because of his speed, shifting ability, and fair passing ability. (He can block and tackle, too.)

—o—

Kelley is the only other letterman returning for another season. He drop-kicked a good portion of this year's extra points, kicked off, and provided many thrills for the fans with his shifty running.

—o—

Golling and Carnahan, a pair of big, hard-running backs capable of playing either fullback or blocking back and rarin' to go, should, if they live up to promise and really give all they have, make a good pair in anyman's backfield.

—o—

Hopkins and Spiegel are another pair of hard-running backs. Both have fighting spirits and a never-say-die attitude. There are many other men who show promise and may take some regular's job. Too many to mention here. Remember, no position in any sport is secure. The men who want to play

After-dinner speeches are delivered in Latin and the newly-elected officers for the coming year are installed.

Night Fishing

Torch Lake in Michigan was called by the Indians Was-wag-onink or Lake of the Torches, because of the lights they used in night fishing.

Students See Famous Pictures at Museum

The European Masters exhibit at the Detroit Institute of Arts was viewed by Mrs. Carol Darling's second hour history class on a field trip taken last Friday.

The exhibit was brought from the New York World's Fair to Detroit as it was too dangerous to return it to Europe through the war zone.

School classes from the Detroit and metropolitan area high schools were given private showing when guards explained the meaning and history of each canvas.

After viewing the pieces the students were asked to vote on their favorite masterpiece. Returns from this vote are not yet known.
