

CALF

at Pine street and George the same offices he informed by Patrolman Sam Stinson.

Ferdinand was stubborn, but lonesome for his mother, Elsie, also on Pierce street. When the three men came to the Shain residence, guarding the small calf, Mrs. Shain rushed out of the door and tried to be the young calf and nervous policemen.
Mrs. Shain did, moreover, Sunday night, as was started to see Ferdinand out of the steps, licking the glass of the sunroom, and then with considerable effort, she got him back to the horse pasture.

Detective Disputed

Montgomery transposed Ferdinand to the Justice of the Peace.
At first, Detective Delyne Service was in charge, and when he discussed the matter with the Gross Mondy attorney, he complained distinctly.

"I bought three quarts of milk and warmed it for that doggone calf, and then he wouldn't drink it."

Chief Hackett snorted. "I'd like to see the calf! I couldn't make drunk. Stick his nose in it—he'll drink."

Service said that when he lived on a farm, they often fingered in the milk and cooled the calf that way. The service added that the calf might be fated battle for a while, with the aid of a rubber glove.

Ferdinand's attitude Ferdinand is in pasture, and is not longer concerned with sippy food like milk. The boy has voted Chief Hackett its guardian.

HASCALL

case trials rarely exceed two or three weeks. A juror seldom is held.

Four Years Term

The office, elective for the people, lasts for four years and pays $2, 000. It is the only office in the state where the incumbent of an attorney can carry on private law practice.

"I couldn't get along if I had to depend on the salary alone," Hascall said.

The charter provided that otherwise changed by ordinance, the justice of the peace shall receive a salary of $2,500.

L. Winslow, 483 Ames, concluded their plea for better treatment of the police, which they believed would be the protection of this state.

Mr. Hassell's term expires July

Bloomfield Hills Comment

Brookfield Hills Justice of the Peace, T. H. Shain, and his wife, Mrs. Shain did, moreover, Sunday night, as was started to see Ferdinand on the steps, licking the

and conduct of fire drills.

Swimming Pool Problems

The old-type cells used for chlorination of water in the Barbarian Swimming Pool at the Fair-march and cost too much to run, Randall reported.

Expert revealed that Royal Oak (population 27,000) has 24 policemen and is adding three more.
Winslow, who is 17, is counting the Counting the Chief, who has 17 officers.

Olson declared that the state police is one officer for every 1,000 people, while Royal Oak has 14 policemen, and has the highest ratio of police to population.

Others for Economy

Others in favor of economy were H. R. Johnson, 23, Harrison; and Mark Harmon, 23, Hazelwood.

"The just and ironclad principle answered," the spokesman said. "We are talking about taxes, some people want to put Birmingham in the lead, but we want to put it in the front."

"We don't think the people who do the work have overpaid," he said.

Then the citizen asked for a department-by-department review of the proposed budget.

The City Treasurer, who makes more money than the Oakland County Treasurer who has 50 people under him, had 50 people under him.

The Pay Salaries

(Treasures) Gorton, who also devotes part of his time to accounting and the direction of the police department, a field engineer, a draftsman and a particularly a rodman.

The question was asked, "How much does the new operating budget exceed last year?" The answer was: "The total contemplated is about $1,000,000 more than last year."

Because of a reduction in the amount carried in the unbudgeted or unappropriated fund, it is planned to cut the tax rate per thousand to a rate of $18.60.

Reduction Seen

Expert said that a heavy investment has been made in improvements in the city during the past six years, but that little future investment will be planned.

Olson said that reductions could be made in some of the departments, particularly the police.

At that point W. L. Johnson presented his plea for better salaries.

"People here want better salaries," he said. "We are on a point budget and I believe all the police are underpaid, particularly the police department. In this vicinity, one police officer has a lower pay schedule than another, and that is not right."

William E. Easney, a resident here 19 years, then continued his request, saying, "On the basis of the attitude and spirit of the people in favor of a 10 per cent raise and I'm willing to pay for it. If the police department is to be underpaid, it is not right."

his request, saying, "On the
people in favor of a 10 per cent raise
and I'm willing to pay for it. If
underpaid, it is not right."

Johnson presented his plea for better salaries.

"The pay scale here was $100 a month; now it is $170, that's not much of a record," he said.

"These men have been loyal to the city and the police force, and the police are the fathers of 22 children; 12 of them either own their own homes or are buying them."

Winslow continued in the same vein, pointing out that the pay raises would add little to the budget.

Golson then remarked: "We don't think any of these policemen are overpaid, but he added that he thought the number of policemen is more than the state average, it might be possible to reduce the force by one or two men and to add the additional money to the budget."

"Don't forget, gentlemen, that one-third of Birmingham, about 100,000 people, are vacant, and that the tax rate goes too high. Don't forget, too, that the teachers in Birmingham average but $1,632 a

That launched a 15-minute discussion about the work of policemen and teachers.

A Tipster

One citizen, who described himself as a "piss-pot," because he had been here only two years, said that in his travels throughout Birmingham, he could secure daily police charts, a tip sheet when he was away from the city.

C. Smith, 460 Pierce street, then declared: "I want to go on the air here because one person who is willing to forward these services if it means more econom-

Audience Applause

This audience was by far the most appreciative of the speeches of Justice of the Peace and the associate justice, and also the provisions as to the time required of each to attend to the duties of his office.

The Salaries

The salaries herein provided for the Justices of the Peace, and the Auditor, Justice of the Peace, shall receive a salary of $300 per annum.

The commissioners may, by ordinance, change the salaries of the Justice of the peace and the associate justice, and also the provisions
as to the time required of each to attend to the duties of his office.
