Shain Tells Purpose

Mr. Shain outlined the purpose of the campaign and explained the need to be made of the money.

"We have built our camps and defense plants quickly," he stated. "Towns adjacent to them were unprepared for the deluge of soldiers, sailors and defense workers off duty. Because the average citizen-soldier is young, it is only natural that off-duty, he seeks pleasure. Therefore it is vital that we offer these homesick, youngsters morale-building recreation. The government, however, has been quick to recognize the need and will spend some $15,000,000 on 360 clubhouses outside the camps to provide the facilities for soldiers' recreation. These buildings will be completely equipped with lounge rooms, free newspapers, magazines, pianos, radios, photographic dark rooms, facilities for dances, forums, hobby clubs, dramatic entertainments and other wholesome activities. To cooperate with the government, there has been formed the inter-faith United Services Organization for National Defense, which will unite the war service work of the YMCA, YWCA, National Catholic Community Service, Jewish Welfare Board, National Travelers Aid Association and the Salvation Army. By uniting all these organizations, duplication of efforts and costs will be avoided.

"The government has requested the United Services Organization to take over the clubhouses and to operate them. A soldier's uniform will be his ticket of admission. He will have a voice in the operation and he will pay only for his purchases at the snack bar.

Quota Here

"But the government cannot finance the organizations charged with the responsibility of conducting the clubhouses. These are private organizations and if their work is to be effective, they must remain so. Consequently, the people of this country are asked to support the work through private contribution. A total $10,765,000 will be needed this year. The quota established for the Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills area is small. It is only $4,000. The nation-wide campaign, headed by Thomas E. Dewey, New York City's District Attorney, gets under way June 3. The local campaign starts the same day. We plan to canvass this area thoroughly so that everyone may have the opportunity to demonstrate that American citizens stand solidly behind their defenders."

All organizations present agreed to supply workers to obtain donations and pledges.

Some of these workers are as follows:

The American Legion Group includes Carl Ely, M. Ray Cook, Walter Kadell, Dr. Carleton Fox, Draper Allen, Dr. Hubert Gahm, E. W. Osborne, Harold Broock, Ferd Broock, Harold Klein, David Levinson, Warren Sterling, and Frank Sternal.

From the American Legion Auxiliary there are Mrs. Thelma Bailey, Mrs. Carl Ely, Mrs. Harry Mudge, Sr., Mrs. M. Ray Cook, Mrs. H. H. Corson, Mrs. Delma Hinds, Mrs. Louise Fredman, Mrs. Matthew Cammarere, Mrs. Fred Bennets, Mrs. Buddy Wade, and Mrs. Florence Devitt.

First Baptist Church members participating are Mrs. F. H. Couldfer, Mrs. Stanley Haines, Mrs. F. Hopkins, and Mrs. George Jackson. From Christ Church Cranbrook are Mrs. Roy Bates, Mrs. Grant Watts, Mrs. Robert Hargreaves, Mrs. Jules Beaubien, Doris Otter, Mrs. William M. Brown, and Howard Bates.

The First Methodist Church group includes Mrs. O. H. Goldberg, Mrs. A. B. Hard, Mrs. George Mack, Mrs. Mark Bearss, and Mrs. Loren L. Farrell. D. A. R. representatives are Mrs. William H. De Graff, and Mrs. W. L. Graham, of Royal Oak. From Lathrup Townsite there will be Harold Mason, J. V. Bell, and L. H. France. Mrs. Ralph A. Main will represent the First Presbyterian Church.

Mothers of boys in Service who are helping include Mrs. Clyde Bennett, Mrs. E. R. Meeker, Mrs. F. W. Grundman, Mrs. Carl Zeigler, Mrs. C. O. Ball, Mrs. K. B. Olson, Mrs. W. T. Cushing, Mrs. Allie Porteous, Mrs. Charles Porteous, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fullmer, Mr. and Mrs. E. Pettypiece, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Otis, Mrs. Shirley Johnstone, and Mrs. J. W. Wayman.

Birmingham Second In League Meet

Trailing Dearborn by less than one point, Birmingham High School track team placed second in the third annual T. V. A. A. meet which was held at Ypsilanti, Wednesday. The final tally for the three leading schools was Dearborn, 54.2, Birmingham, 53.5, and River Rouge, 22.6. Ecorse, Plymouth, and Wayne, only other schools in the meet, scored less than 15 points apiece.

The local track stars can claim a new record for the T. V. A. A. 880 yard relay. The new time was 1:35.7, a gain of one second under the old record. Jack Steelman took firsts in the 220- and 100-yard dashes, while Dick Gilbert took first in the 440 yard dash.

Tennis Team Loses

The high school tennis team, playing under a blazing sun, dropped a match Tuesday when Ferndale edged them out, 5-2. This was the last match of the season.

From the Women's Angle

By LILLIAN DIEDERICH

Did you ever watch a crowd of women at a bargain counter? Digging deeply into piles of messy merchandise looking for they know not what, and emitting a roaring cry in all directions, alighting finally on the person across the counter who clutches tightly a delectable something or other, they pounce, if—and when.

Yesterday I watched a melee of bargain hunters milling around a long table of remnants. "Nope for anything would I be a combatant in that feminine warfare," said I to myself. But presently I poured out of the elevators and hurrying feet pointed straight towards the battle front.

"Must be something most unusual," I thought as my curiosity conquered my sanity and I joined the throng. No one welcomed me there, not an inch would they budge. "So if it's to be like that," I said under my breath, "I too can battle." In less than no time my elbows and sharp heels pried through. Close in, with only room to breathe spasmodically, I stood.

Ah, pure silk yardage, and only a dollar a yard! Littlepieces, big pieces and medium sizes. Silk for this, that, and those unmentionables. The sewing bug buzzed noisily in my head. I grabbed one end of a de-lovely silk, but a person with glaring eyes across the way, yanked hard and the silk breezed out of my grasp. I'd know better next time. I spied deep down in another my favorite red shade. I pulled and pulled, it seemed to be just mine, but the yardage ticket was missing. Was there sufficient material for a blouse? The pattern counter was several aisles away. Craftily I turned the lovely thing deep down under. Then blitzkrieged out. In a few minutes, I returned, pattern in hand. A "National Woman's Convention" blocked my way. Spiraling effectively, I gained front row again. A big gal was bustly measuring MY RED SILK, by sliding it at arm's length, stretching it from the tip of her nose to the tip of her out-stretched fingers. I waited and waited, but she hung on. Selecting a bright blue remnant I edged up close to her.

"Isn't this blue just heavenly?" I whispered. "It would be perfect for anyone with blue eyes." (hers were blue.) She looked at me and seeing only sincerity in my face, she picked up the blue silk, dropping the red carelessly. It didn't take me long—not a long enough. Now the Beautiful red silk is mine. So are the holes, fine as pin points scattered throughout.

Tells Why India Is Behind Britain In Present Conflict

The 20th annual reunion of the International Relations Classes was fittingly celebrated on Tuesday morning with a program on India. Approximately 150 alumnae were present. Mrs. Charles J. Shain, leader during the entire period, presided.

Mrs. George W. Dwelley sang three numbers of a suite, "Songs of India," followed by the principal address given by T. A. Raman, B.A., L.L.B., of the University of Madras and King's College, London. Mr. Raman, formerly editor of the Associated Press of India, has known the leaders of political thought of two continents. Long familiar with the "Independent India Movement," he has aided it both in India and in England. However, he presented both sides of that complex question critically and objectively—and with a view to solving the whole Indian problem.

Might Be Neutral

He made it plain that if this war were a clash solely between Imperial Britain and Nazi Germany, then India would be neutral. But, he said that even the "leftist" Indians, the most hard-hitten advocates of an independent India, denounced the Soviet aggression into Finland and all Nazi invasions of freedom everywhere. He said that the British policy as announced, namely, "Our purpose is to see India a free and equal partner of the English Commonwealth of Nations as soon as possible," has satisfied all liberalists. "India feels her destiny lies only with the victory of the democracies. Again and again, Mr. Raman emphasized the determination of the nationalists of India to subordinate their objective of Free India to the necessity of conquering Hitlerism.

"India is in mortal peril," said Mrs. Raman. "Her position is not remote. Suez and Singapore are being defended by Indian troops gladly and courageously. Profound and unmistakable is their loathing for the whole totalitarian setup. For Indian culture is centuries upon centuries old. Brute force and conniving politicians are set at the bottom of the ladder."

Indians Are Fighting

India is playing a very important part in Britian's defenses, he said—for there are thousands of Indian troops in service. He believes India will be 90 per cent efficient in nine months.

India says, "We want to be free but we must conquer the Nazis first," was the way Mr. Raman put it.

There is no connection between Moslem Indians and the Moslem Arabians or any Mohammedans elsewhere, he said.

Although Gandhi thinks that all wars are evil and passive resistance is his faith and that such a faith can be brought to work in the world, "He will not organize resistance against England now."

Mr. Raman said that India must do two things: (1) Produce more, and (2) Develop her own defenses to release England to do the job elsewhere.

Mr. Raman pointed out that because England is now fighting a war for her life, the Nationalist Party in India should, theoretically, be very strong. However, that is not the case for India feels her independence will never be gained under Nazi Germany.

Prof. Robert M. McDowell, of the U. of M. Near East department, also spoke.
