Action of Religion in Home, Church, And School Discussed by Citizens

Mr. Harry Clark, of the 14-mile road, conducted this week's mid-week interviews on the topic "Religion in the Home, School and Church." There is to be a session of religion at the Community Council in the school auditorium on Nov. 25, at which many aspects of this question will be discussed further.

James Smith, chairman of the finance committee, Birmingham Y. M. C. A., "Action in Action," Active religion, and this the editor's policy, the southville student in the religious action in action, dominates the Community Christian Council.

Through its active religious work, the church has been of great benefit to the direction of ministry, ceases activity as the accepted method of gospel sales.

The majority of us fail to realize religion in action in our daily surroundings, the ordinary events of life, the quiet devotion of the school teacher, the dependability of the merchant.

The duty of active religion. Statistics prove that all these forms of faithfulness the more truth is attached or determined, all the more likely it will be summoned by reason of its importance.

Doris Protheroe, Haaga Street, senior in high school, Piquette a college is a hard job, but I believe that the best way to get a good education is through a rigorous training program, I am interested in a college which offers for any student who is planning on a career in the ministry.

The music director at the Birmingham Y. M. C. A. is Mrs. John Morris, who is a graduate of Baldwin High School.

Considering the present world situation, I think that there should be more religious training to the schools than there is now.

Rev. John Morris, Birmingham, "There are many forms which do not take an active part in the religious life of the organization. A discussion on religion in action in school, school and church should shake us all. Above all, however, we must not let the religious life become a burden. Birmingham is dependent on Christianity. Therefore we should gladly share the responsibilities of the churches if we can help them to do their work. That is my own belief in them."

Rev. L. W. Pardee, Uihlein Cong. Bldg., Birmingham Presbyterian minister, "The church is the center of community life. It is the church which has the responsibility of educating so that every child shall have normal access to it, and so each member is a responsible member."
