Bowling Alleys Open Saturday

Grand opening of the new Hill-Wood Recreation, Bloomfield Hills, will be held Saturday evening, it was announced today.

Feature of the celebration will be a one-night tournament with 14 of Detroit's leading all-star teams competing for $250 in prizes. Listed are these teams: Stroh's, Detroit Recreation, E & E, Brunswick, Pepsi-Cola, Krakow, Olympia Recreation, Detroit Auto Club, Chene-Trombley, Paris Cleaners, Norton, National Billiard, Edelweiss and Norge.

The alleys are equipped with the latest in alleys—14 new Brunswick Centennials, plus other recreational facilities.

Unexpected Bill Brings Commission To Pass Ordinance

A new ordinance designed to protect the City Treasury from unexpected expense in hiring out-side judges was passed by the City Commission, Monday night.

The regulation came about after an incident in August when Justice Forbes S. Hascall was on his vacation and Associate Justice James W. Taylor was called out of the city. Justice Oliver King of Southfield Township was brought in and he presented a bill for $20.

The City now pays Justice Hascall $2,500 as justice and $356 for legal services, while Taylor gets $300 a year, and the Commission decided that $2,800 ought to provide full time court service. (Almost all justices of the peace in other cities and townships collect fees and are no expense to the local treasury.)

In the future, should both justices be out of town at the same time, the fees paid to outside justices will be deducted from one or other's salaries.

The ordinance also set hours of court, as follows: 9 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 4 p. m., except Saturday afternoons and holidays.

Justice Hascall cooperated in the matter and drafted the ordinance, which was adopted. He related that this court handles about 150 criminal cases a year and about 100 civil cases. Not all of these come to trial.

The Commission embarked on a lengthy discussion of whether or not the new ordinance should call for the 4th that night session are available after the 30th. Justice Hascall explained that the 4th Monday is usually the busiest one of the month, and the ordinance was sought to relieve the public know that justice is fair and easy to obtain.

Justice Hascall related that he occasionally held night court when necessary, but that he discouraged the practice.

Other commissioners expressed the opinion that as long as no problem has arisen in regard to night court, that no change ought to be made.

The ordinance is printed in full elsewhere in The Eccentric.

Lions Club Hears Value of Humor

The Rev. William C. Hamm, assistant rector of Christ Church Cranbrook, told members of the Lions Club yesterday that there are three senses, in addition to the five already recognized, which are necessary in order to lead a balanced life. He listed these as perspective, proportion, and humor.

Use of these three senses will give one greater enthusiasm for life, according to Mr. Hamm. He particularly stressed the importance of humor in life today, telling several anecdotes to illustrate his point.

Miss Keegan predicted that Baldwin High would be unable to make enough first downs to win a football game. "Maybe they can get Saturday afternoon off to go to the game."

"What's your opinion?" she asked.

"I haven't any opinion," he answered. "I am content to look at a chart and followed all the games pretty closely. Last week's was the first ballot I sent in (Oxford guesses I signed the entire slate as I guess of last year's performance.)

gues. Would you like to join in Mr. Eustis?"

The latter indicated in the negative, and made this rather caustic suggestion.

"Why not revamp the curriculum and eliminate all the subjects which are now absolutely necessary, such as algebra, shop, manual training and gym, more to the other hand?"

Might Arouse Storm

He indicated that such drastic action might "make people sit up."

Supt. Howard D. Gibson is now attending the meeting at which it is said that the curriculum has been in a restricted basis for several years and that more interest might result if the schools were broadened. Also by the North Central Association.

"Once you take out all of the hard to get back in," he declared, "you'll find that you're going to be pretty closely. Last week's was the first ballot I sent in (Oxford guesses I signed the entire slate as I guess of last year's performance.)

Secretary Ettore of Seaholm pointed out that 50 per cent of Baldwin High graduates do not go to college and that the basis can only be forgotten.

There was a short discussion about whether Baldwin graduates compare favorably with those of other high schools.

"An official of one mid-western university told me that local graduates don't stand up," Eustis declared.

Defends Graduates

Bill take issue with that. Jones declared. "An official of the University of Michigan told me that our graduates do not receive which are better than average better than Grosse Pointe, for example."

Malcolm made this point. "I am much disturbed about the reputation our schools are getting. If everyone keeps saying the schools are going down so, the element to raise are opposed, people will be believing it. I don't believe they are going down."

Malcolm added that he had made substantial gains during the past three or four years, thanks to Mr. Crull.

Eustis suggested that if another election is held, the Board of Education take the lead in sponsoring an intensive "getting out" campaign.

Suggest Trade With Voters

When the debt budget for 1941-42 was discussed Eustis suggested representing 98 per cent may collect on taxes on a $8.40 rate. Eustis called attention to a report that he had made at the time of the selection. He suggested that a "trade" be made with the voters; that is, the Board could reduce the debt levy by two mills if the public would vote two mills for operating, leaving the total gross school tax rate the same. (The Board controls the latter, does not control the operating rate, which is set by the County Tax Allocation Board under the 15 mill limitation.)

"I was interested in the idea last spring myself, but upon de-

ANOTHER STORY

Tuesday night, firemen just laid down their tools in building a new smoke-ejector fan when an alarm came in from 315 Greenwood, where the basement was full of smoke from a faulty furnace pipe. "The fan worked swell," Chief Griffith said, "but we never expected to give it such a prompt try-out."
