From the Women's Angle

By KATHRYN UMPHREY
The well-known lure of the big city has nothing on the attraction of Washington, D. C. for working girls throughout the country. Although high salaries offered have a great deal to do with the number of young women who go there, the excitement of being in the nation's capital cannot be ignored.

Salaries Average $3,200
All this and more like much more than the average salary of $1,300 for clerical workers and $1,400 for summer dress makers, the boys young girls usually get. It doesn't have much on it to tempt them, particularly when salaries have been raised.

Girls Dress for Heat
Surprising enough, Miss Wingerden said that she doesn't find the dress of the modern girl as attractive as the dress of the girl of 1930. She said that the modern girl's dress is too heavy for the weather.
