Sold on Defense OPA Speaker Will Discuss Prices

Samuel Jacobs, of Detroit, recently appointed regional representative of the Consumer Division for the Office of Price Administration in the area including Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan, will speak at an adult education meeting at Baldwin High School, room 101, next Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 9 p. m.

Mr. Jacobs will talk on "Consumer and Defense" which will include a discussion of articles should be bought at this time in quantities and also what shortages will present themselves in a short time. He will also give out information on the problems of price, supply, substitute materials, and conservation methods. The OPA attempts to help the consumer help himself through better buying information and through the use of all available local and state facilities for raising standards of living.

The speaker himself has had considerable experience in consumer education and organization work. At one time he was editor for the Detroit Buyers Research Association, and has helped to organize consumer cooperatives, one of which he managed for a period of years.

In 1936, Mr. Denby organized "America's Town Meeting of the Air" as an inauguration to recapture the democratic way of thinking and solving problems. The first year six experimental programs were given with a tremendous response from the public and ever since, Mr. Denby has given the town meeting back to America in twenty-six broadcasts. They have 1400 organized listening groups and study clubs, some duplicating in every detail the town meetings. America's oldest type of independent political activity.

'One to Wash and One to Wear' Motto of New Clothing Drive

Biggest news of the week in the local club world is the Needlework Guild meeting and tea next Tuesday afternoon at the Community House. The guild members are working like mad under the direction of their enthusiastic president, Mrs. Fern M. Brock, to gather up new articles of household goods for the guild's annual drive. Everything collected will be on display at the tea.

To be a member of the Guild, which is national in scope and associated with the Red Cross, is to contribute five new garments to the drive. A member becomes a director when he or she can find 11 others who will each give two new articles of money for goods. One of the most interesting things about the Guild is that everything they collect is used right here in our own community and also that the guild itself does none of the distributing. Articles are all turned over immediately to existing social agencies—in Birmingham the school nurse, Community House, City nurse, Red Cross, and the like—for distribution.

What is the American System of Chartered Banking?

- Briefly it is 15,000 banks such as ours—most of them owned by local stockholders—each of them serving its community with the sincerity and helpfulness that comes with close association and common interests.
- It is a democratic system—supervised by the government but controlled by local owners. It is a good system—time-tested and proved—and we hope that it may long survive as a shining example of democracy at work.

Book reviews popular

TWO BOOK REVIEW GROUPS have been formed, members being far too numerous for one. Afternoon sessions under Mrs. Carl E. Bailey are held in private homes and a dessert luncheon is always served. Each meeting includes a reading at least once during the year and also must give one book review. The first meeting of the year becomes quite festive and is the form of a picnic to which husbands are invited. The second group is conducted in the same way and is also open to everyone. The first meeting of the year is held at the home of Mrs. Harrison Thurston. Only a few openings here—so get your "tickets" if you want to join. Mrs. H. W. Schjorn is now taking reservations for the same group, which will start work next month. If interested call her at 1940.

Marionette Shows Scheduled to Be Big Events of Next Wednesday

In the important events department also come the Rufus Rose Marionette Shows next week, Wednesday, Oct. 23. There are to be two presentations of the marionettes and evening. The first program will be at the afternoon at the Bloomfield Theatre, which is donating for the afternoon; and the show for adults, to be held in the evening at the Community House. This, too, is being sponsored by the U.A.W. for support of the Saturday and the scholarship fund.
