Students Design Posters for Fair

As the day for the Pierce School Fair, Friday, Nov. 7, approaches, both parents and children are being kept busy with arrangements. The Fair, which will last from 3:30 to 11 p. m., is being sponsored by the Pierce School P.-T. A.

A humorous play entitled, "They're Dead But They Won't Lie Down" will be presented by a staff of 22 persons. The play consists of a series of situations taken from everyday life, history and legends. Among those taking part in it are Mrs. Leland Childreth, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McCracken, Mrs. Arthur Renolds, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grimshaw, C. J. Parent, Mr. and Mrs. John Knott, Mrs. William DiPiazza, Charles Harris, Fred Reid, Albert Loeding, Robert Peck, Morris Robbins and five Pierce School children. Mrs. James Damrell is general chairman of the program.

This past week students of the fifth and sixth grades have taken part in a School Fair poster contest, under the direction of Miss Florence Renton. First prizes went to Adam Thurston, sixth, and Peggy McPhail, fifth. Janet Ferstle and Lois Uppleger, both sixth graders, won second prizes, and third awards were taken by Jimmy Heaphy and Fred Case, fifth.

Girls Plan Festival

Kingswood School is to celebrate its tenth anniversary with an Autumn Festival Saturday evening. The Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills students, pictured above, are all working in one capacity or another to make the evening a big success.

Since it is the tenth anniversary, the girls decided to make the celebration similar to a ten year-old's birthday party, and consequently are all coming dressed as kids at the age of 10.

Barbara Scott is general chairman of the whole event and as such is responsible for the many clever ideas being put to use. Nancy Loud is in charge of the program, which is to include four original songs. The girls have also made up games to go with two of the songs. Jean Beresford is working on Nancy's committee. Mary Lou Chapman is to act as master of ceremonies. Peggy Lind is chairman of the decorations committee, and Anne L'Hommedieu is in charge of tickets.

Night School Classes May Be Organized In Public Schools

Proposal for evening school classes at Baldwin High School was made to the Board of Education Tuesday evening, by Herbert C. Schell, now an instructor at Bailey High School, Detroit.

Schell said it might be possible to offer various commercial courses for $5 or $3 a course if classes of 30 could be secured. Teachers would be paid $8 a night, Schell said he was not interested in any profit, although he was willing to teach a regular class, if any. Typing, shorthand, mathematics, mechanical drawing and English might be available. The typing class would be difficult to secure at present, as it is now provided free instruction.
