Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallace Spending a Month in Bermuda

Newly-married Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallace are in Bermuda by this time, all set to enjoy a month's stay. They left Birmingham after their wedding last Friday for New York from whence they traveled to Bermuda by Clipper.

The bride, Miss Ann Mead, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mead of Puritan avenue, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Grace Booth Wallace, of Lone Pine road, and Henry L. Wallace, of Ann Arbor.

The wedding ceremony was performed Friday evening in St. Dunstan's Chapel, Christ Church Cranbrook, by the Rev. William C. Hamm. The altar was backed with cyclotium fern which extended down the sides of the chapel. Vases of white gladioli and mums, and white tapers completed the decorations. Because of illness of the bride's father, she was given in marriage to her brother, William Henry Mead, of Birmingham.

Mrs. Wallace is wearing a gown which her sister, Mrs. Dana Poole Seeley, of Ann Arbor had worn for her marriage. The gown was fashioned after flowing Grecian lines with long tight sleeves, puffed at the shoulder, a sweet heart neckline and long train. It was made of white calla lace over white satin. A veil of Belgian hooded lace over white tulle was caught in place by a coronet and fell beyond the train. The bride carried a loose bouquet of gardenias and white orchids.

Margaret Mead, her sister's maid of honor, was dressed in a basque frock of rose corded tulle. A ruff of matching lace, encircled by waistlines while the short puffed sleeves and round neckline were edged with alvete binding. A full veil of lace fell from her coronet headdress of rose lace. She carried a colonial bonnet of white tulle with a champagne thimble and tulle skirt.

Mrs. Seeley's maid of honor, Ann Shirley and Katherine Wallace, bridesmaids, wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor, of beaver blue tulle. Their bouquets of gardenias were centered with rose flowers.

The young couple plan to make their home in Bloomfield Hills temporarily.
