

Kingswood Seniors at Work on Annual Play, "Midsummer Night's Dream"

Rev. Curry, Former Resident, Visits Here; Christens Colby Child

THE REV. DAVID CURRY, of Philadelphia, Pa., formerly of Birmingham, is visiting here with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Stites, of Bates street. Next Sunday afternoon the Stites will hold open house in their home in honor of Rev. Curry.

Last Sunday evening Rev. Curry officiated at the christening ceremony of Mr. Stites' great niece, Sandra Kay Colby, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Colby. The christening was done in the same room where Kay's brother, George, was christened, and from a bowl that belonged to Mrs. Stites' grandmother. It also is the same room from which Mr. and Mrs. Stites were married.

Girls Make Plans For Annual Show During Vacation

Way before school closed last spring, members of the coming senior class at Kingswood School for Girls began making plans for the annual senior play, and this summer those living in this vicinity have continued to work on their project.

As is the senior class custom, the play is to be a Shakespearean comedy, this time a shortened version of "Midsummer Night's Dream," and will be given on Nov. 25. Members of the cast and production staff, already chosen, have held several meetings this summer at the home of Mrs. W. W. Cochran, on Puritan road, who is to be their director.

Among those now hard at work are Jean Boreford, Joan Grindley, Marjorie Booth, Jean Thompson, Peggy Cobb, Patsy Lovett, Peggy Lind, Nancy Loud, Kitty Wallace, Barbara Scott, and Patsy Webb, all of Birmingham and Bloomfield, and Sally Eskland, of Rochester.

Will Make Surgical Dressings Next Week

Once again workers are needed at the surgical dressings workrooms in Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills. "It may seem rather queer," Mrs. F. C. Gued explains to us, "when we have such a large quota that the workrooms close down one week and are operating at more than top speed the next."

It seems that the conditions of getting materials are far beyond the control of the local authorities. Materials are naturally shipped here, and as we all know, shipping these days is a very precarious matter. Troops come first with their supplies, then ammunition and other materials. Consequently, when the trains and transportation routes are taxed, surgical dressings materials, along with other things, must wait. This is naturally understood by the workwomen, and they would want no other way.

Instead they have a new motto of working plan, and that is "We will turn out to the best we can, as we possibly can—wherever it arrives."

Materials have arrived again, and all possible workers will be needed next week to make up for the delay of the past week—so remember, everyone who turns out to help, even if it means postponing the washing, drying, baking, and other jobs of any other normal peacetime activities.

Miss Brook Finishes Basic Training
