

Five Weddings During the Past Week Dominate Local Social Activities

Virginia List and Dr. Green Wed in Impressive Rites

At an impressive ceremony held on Tuesday evening in St. Dunstan's Chapel of Christ Church Cranbrook, Virginia List, daughter of Mrs. John List of Barbour Terrace, became the bride of Dr. Nelson W. Green, of Detroit. Dr. Green is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Green, of Detroit.

Tiny white mums and white gladioli were used to decorate the altar before which the Rev. William C. Hann read the nuptial services. Given in marriage by her uncle, Fred W. Brodie Jr., Virginia wore a bridal dress of stately white satin, fashioned on princess lines and made with a V-neckline draped with lace, long fitted sleeves, and a full sweeping skirt having a deep flounce of lace caught here and there with satin bows. She wore a veil of Chantilly lace, worn originally by her mother, and a baby of the same lace. The bridal bouquet was of white roses, stephanotis, and gardenias.

Ludington Church Scene of Heinmiller-Jones Wedding

A charming wedding ceremony was solemnized Monday afternoon at the Grace Episcopal Church in Ludington, Mich., when Alice Lee Heinmiller and Robert Curtis Jones exchanged nuptial vows. Dr. F. E. B. Anderson read the services. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Heinmiller of Brewery Point, Epworth Heights, Ludington, and Mr. Jones is the son of Albert Curtis Jones, of Western Springs, Ill., and the late Mrs. Jones.

Red and white was the color scheme used for the wedding. The marriage ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with white gladioli and lighted white tapers in cathedral candleholders, white bouquets of red and white gladioli and white corsages were used throughout the church.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a gown of white shantung, trimmed in Irish lace. Her fitted jacket was made with bracelet length sleeves and the skirt was extremely full. An elaborate tulle veil, worn by Alice Lee's great aunt, was held in place by red sequined Juliet's cap which held her shoulder veil in place and with an ending of white roses. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses with white orchids and stephanotis.

June Osborne, of Birmingham, bridesmaid, wore a white "la zee zee" dress, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, tight fitting waist, and a full skirt. Red and white roses edged her Juliet cap which held her shoulder veil in place and her bouquet was of red and white roses and gladioli, tied with red and white ribbons.

Kenneth M. Jones, of Holland Park, Ill., acted as best man, and guests were Robert Strahl, of Detroit, and Edwin Shelby, of Ludington.

After the ceremony, the wedding guests and bridal party returned to Brewery Point for a reception. The bride's table was centered with a white tiered wedding cake, surrounded by an arrangement of white gladioli and cosmos.

Mr. Arthur A. Bull Gives Benefit for British War Relief

Opening the new season, Mrs. A. A. Bull entertained 50 guests at a benefit tea for the British War Relief at her home on Linden road last Wednesday afternoon. Last year members of the British War Relief Society held various teas and benefit parties throughout the fall, winter, and spring seasons.

Assisting Mrs. Bull were Mrs. Robert Quail, Mrs. Charles Adams, Mrs. George Heath, and Mrs. A. L. Downer.

BANKS AND THE WAR

The Home Front

MODERN wars are fought on many fronts, and one of them is right at home. Life must go on. People must live, eat, have shelter and clothing, and carry on in many ways as they did before the war.

The regular services offered by banks to provide safety for money, expedite payments, facilitate thrift and so on, are still as important as ever. We continue to offer them, even though the stress is now on the special war-time services. You are invited to use this bank.

Margaret McBride and Edward Spicer Will Wed Sept. 11

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McBride, of Linden road, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Edward Spicer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Spicer, of Gray Court. The ceremony is scheduled to take place Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rhoda Claire McBride, daughter of Mr. Melvin C. McBride of Aspen road, and the late Mr. McBride, became the bride of Harry Wesley Mellen, in a ceremony read by the Rev. Kenneth Glass in the St. Joseph Episcopal church, Detroit. Mr. Mellen is the son of Mrs. Harry W. Mellen, of Dexter boulevard, Detroit, and Mrs. Mellen of Mrs. Mellen.

The nuptial vows were repeated before an altar decorated with white gladioli and stephanotis against a background of ferns and palms. Tall white tapers in cathedral candle holders provided the lighting.

For her wedding Rhoda chose a bridal gown of ivory tulle-fash gown with a long tulle train distinguished by a sweetheart neckline and full length sleeves ending in points over the wrists. She wore a small equestrian hat, topped by three flowers of the tulle and soft tulle cascade veil which hung over her face. Instead of a bouquet she carried a prayer book, corsage with white orchids and stephanotis.

John B. Long, who came up from Ludington, Ky., the Rhoda's uncle, acted as best man, and Edward Spicer, except for bracelet length sleeves, wore a white tulle suit and matching hat with a short tulle veil. Her corsage was orchids.

Best man was George Gorman and officiating minister was Rev. Kenneth George Collins, Arto Reardon, Jim Hayward and Calvin J. Gates, Jr.

Mrs. McBride wore a gown of powder blue chiffon and lace with a matching hat and corsage of white gladioli. Mr. Mellen was dressed in dark navy tulle, a pastel military coat hat and wore an ornate vest.

After the wedding ceremony a reception for 200 guests was held at the home of the bride at Linden road and luncheon was held at the Edgewater Beach hotel for a stay at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago.

Mrs. Mellen wore a cream and brown gown suit, with brown accessories, and a white tulle hat with shoulder. After Sept. 1, the bride will be at home in Birmingham.

Dorothy S. King Wears White Satin For Wedding Rites

Wearing traditional bridal attire of white satin, Dorothy S. King was united in matrimony to Arthur W. Hill Saturday afternoon at a ceremony performed in the St. James Episcopal church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. King, of Shiloh road, Farmington, Mich., and Mr. Hill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Hill, of Linden road.

The Rev. J. H. Woodfield, of St. Paul's Memorial Church in Highland Park, led the service before an altar decorated with white gladioli and small white mums which were packed in tall white candles in a row of candleholders. The bride's gown was made with a fitted bodice, having a heart-shaped neckline and a long, flowing, let-length sleeve, and a full skirt of white and red satin. A coral cap made entirely of coral points caught her fingertip length veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and gardenias.

Small pink marigolds over tulle formed the corsage worn by the maid of honor, Mrs. Herbert Kramer, Jr., of South Bond, Ind. The cover was made of coral points, having two and a half narrow ruffles of self-material on the skirt and a bodice. She also wore a Juliet cap made with large lace at the back of her neck, of pale pink. She carried a bouquet of tuberoses.

June Lee Tremper and Marjorie Bull, bridesmaids, were dressed like the matron of honor, but in pastel blue, and they carried baby pink bouquets.

Mr. King gave his daughter away in marriage. Kenneth Kleinke, of Washington, D. C., was best man, and seating the guests were Richard Kearns and William Horton.

The best daughter's wedding Mrs. King wore an afternoon jacket of pink powder blue crepe, a small fabric edged velvet hat and an orchid on her shoulder. Mrs. Bull wore a dress of gold crepe, brown accessories and a green orchid.

Following a reception at the King's home, the young Mr. and Mrs. Hill left for a wedding trip in Northern Michigan. For traveling Mrs. Hill chose a two-piece suit of brown sheer wool with pink tails at the neck, and beige accessories. There will be their home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Eisman-Meyer Nows Exchanged In Hills Church

Just as the storm stopped and a colorful sunset appeared in the sky at exactly 8:30 o'clock last Saturday evening, Precilla Ann Eisman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Eisman, and First Lt. Eric Moffat Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. W. Meyer, began to speak their wedding vows. The Rev. R. L. DeWitt read the services at Christ Church Cranbrook before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and larkspur, and lighted candles.

Silk marquette over slipper satin formed the bridal gown which was made with a fitted bodice and a full skirt edged with flaring. The long veil of illusion was caught in place by a coronet of heirloom Flemish lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white tuberoses, stephanotis, and trailing ivy.

All honor attendants wore marquette and lace—the bridesmaids were of lace made with deep marquette yokes. The lace was also used in the short sleeves and for the aprons over the full marquette sette skirts. Marjorie Snyder, maid of honor, carried a cascade bouquet of flowers clad with matching flowers in her hair. The bridesmaids were Christine Harris, of Chesey Chase, Peggy Murphy, and Nancy Pond, of Washington.

A reception and buffet supper followed the ceremony at the Orchard Lake Country Club. Later Lt. and Mrs. Meyer left for a trip through Virginia after which they will make their home at Rafter, near Ft. Meyer is stationed.

When leaving, the bride was wearing a maison blue gown, time suit with a hat and bag of red and blue/scarlet plaid.

Among the many out of town guests were Mrs. James Parker, formerly of Bloomfield Hills, now of Dayton, Ohio. He is the father of Lt. Parker who served as an usher at the wedding party.

Furniture and Lamps that make dreams come true

WE presume you've wondered, as we used to, just what made a particular room take on the appearance that it was virtually dreamed first and then came true!

If you haven't figured it out, try it. You'll no doubt come to the conclusion we came to. That it's the mighty careful selection of the smaller pieces of furniture—together with the lamps—which have a great deal to do with it.

Come in and see the beautiful, quality-reflecting desks and tables and chairs and mirrors and magazine holders and lamps we are now showing. They are the kind that make dreams come true!
