

Swaggering Hero Will Hold Interest 'Till Small Hours

By LINDO MOORE

Nothing like a first class awash-buckling hero swaggering his way through incredible dangers and romances of other days to keep one reading until the small hours of the morning.

Such a one is brash Ingram Applegarth, hero of Out on Any Limb, by John Meyers. There was a goodly rogue! Quick enough to draw sword over a few hothotheaded words and as ready for dalliance with any pretty maid. Roaming the highways of Elizabethan England to seek his fortune, young Applegarth promptly tangled with politics of the day, took part in a kidnapping, fell in love and fought again, and fought (not always creditably) all enough days for a bucko of twice his years.

Good meaty, flavorful reading for any sunny afternoon.

Dissimilar in tone, but a period piece is King's Passenger by Nathan Schachner. This tale concerns Bacon's Rebellion, that half-forgotten episode of America's infancy. An unusually colorful tale depicting the newly founded Jamestown and its way of life.

Other new titles include: High Stakes, by Curt Reiss. An intricately exciting tale of espionage in America. Action follows the American relentlessly tracking Nazi spies through a maze of intrigue, crime and death. The author claims that most of the incidents are based on truth.

Immortal Sergeant, by John Brophy. A gripping story of a British patrol lost in the Libyan desert, fighting heat, thirst and enemy planes with equal doggedness.

Angel with Spurs, by P. L. Wellman. Adventurous novel based on the action of a group of Confederate soldiers who tried to make their way into Mexico after the Civil war, to join the ill-fated Maximilian.

Roots, by Baroness van Bovecop. Lead in Java, this is a tense story of conflict between Nazis and freedom-loving native patriots.

With the Root, by E. F. Flury. A poignant story of the unselfish devotion of a village priest to his people.

Three wives, by Ragnar Gjerdam. A gaily sophisticated story of modern Norway.

Mr. Fan, by Emily Hahn. The Chinese gentleman for whom this book is named endears himself to the reader by sweet reasonableness and unconscious humor.

HELPFUL Hints

on taking care of your ELECTRIC RANGE

"Take good care of the things you have," reads the U. S. Government's Consumer's Pledge—and this applies with special force to many things that are irreplaceable. Your electric range must last for the duration, and to help you use it carefully and wisely, these few suggestions are offered:

- 1) Never use a stiff brush or sharp instrument to remove spilled food from heating elements. Food spilled on open surface units should be burned off. (Avoid letting spilled food dry or harden on the range.)
- 2) Roasting or broiling meat in the oven deposits grease on the oven walls. When cool, wipe the inside of the oven with a damp cloth. This should be done each time after use.
- 3) Wash outside of range with warm soapy water. On most ranges with closed-type surface units, these may be raised up so that the pan underneath can be removed for cleaning. Check manufacturer's directions.
- 4) Ventilate your oven after each baking operation by leaving the door ajar.

By following these simple rules, you will be giving your electric range the care it deserves, and your precaution may help to avert a possible breakdown or damage. Conservation of critical metals and repair materials helps the war effort. The Detroit Edison Company.

Traffic Crashes at North Intersection

Traffic conditions on North Hatten Boulevard, at the intersection where the southbound traffic crosses against northbound old Woodward, have become so bad that a present a road change. Last Sunday night three cars came to Detroit. According to police, Donald B. Kniff, 27, of Roseville, driving north on old Woodward avenue, failed to stop for southbound traffic. He struck a car being driven by Harry J. Himmang, 38, of 5007 Spokane avenue, Detroit. Behind the Humming came Frank C. Peller, 31, of 9124 Harper avenue in Detroit, who struck the rear of the car ahead of him. Fortunately, no one was injured.

The day before there was a two-car collision at the same intersection, and no one was injured. The State has recently placed additional signs there, and re-surfaced the southbound road with blacktop as a warning, but motorists continue to go through, heedless of the situation.

"Hold it!"

War calls must go through!

Every American is glad to give the right of way to our fighting forces in these days of war.

Remember that telephone lines are highways too—highways of speech over which thousands of vital military and war production messages must travel each day. And Long Distance lines to the places listed at the right are now carrying an extra heavy load of war traffic.

Any Long Distance call you make—particularly over these lines—may delay an important war message. Because of material shortages we can't add enough new lines to handle the increased traffic. So it's up to all of us to make the most efficient use of the facilities we now have.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls, and avoid these crowded lines especially.
2. Keep your conversations as brief as you can.
3. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.

Local service can be improved in the same way. Try to keep all calls as short as possible. Show your children how, too, can aid the nation's effort by keeping their calls brief. And please don't call Information for a number when it's listed in the directory. The telephone calls you save can speed delivery of a plane or tank!
