Obituary

Mrs. Nelle C. Roberts

Funeral services were held on Tuesday in Brookville, Ind., for Mrs. Nelle C. Roberts, who died here at her residence, 935 Southfield, on Saturday afternoon following an illness of 26 years.

Mrs. Roberts was born 56 years ago in Brookville, Ind., and attended school there. She was a member of the Brookville Methodist Church, and in 1911 was married to H. W. Roberts. Eight years ago she moved out to Birmingham from Detroit.

She is survived by her husband, a sister, Mrs. Daisy Logan, of Brookville, and a brother, William.

Failure of her artesian well brought Mrs. Ruby I. Van Rensselaer, Evergreen road south of Birmingham, before the City Commission Monday night. She asked that the City do something to assist her, blaming the new Birmingham well on Southfield road for her plight.

"Have you ever been without water, gentlemen?" she asked. "I have guests in my house and every drop of water has to be carried from the neighbors."

She added that until the City sunk its Southfield well, her artesian well flowed without interruption. The water went into a tank whence a pump supplied her house; there is no pump in the well itself.

The City Commission maintained that the City is not liable.

City Manager Carl C. Eaton said that there has been a general lowering of the water table in the area, that the Lincoln well, when first drilled, flowed naturally, but now has a level before below the ground.

"We would hesitate starting putting in deep well pumps for people," Mayor John E. Mantz said. "We would be starting something we couldn't stop."

SOLDIERS

Club Notes

Embury Youth Fellowship

The Embury Youth Fellowship, at their meeting on Sunday evening, heard the reports of the two delegates they sent to the Detroit District Institute at Albion for the week of July 5-12. Delegates were the group's president and treasurer, Velma Crouse and Mae Weldon. Plans were also discussed for the monthly outing.

Turn off the HEAT WAVE with these SPECIALS

Everyone knows that we can't control the weather and when it gets hot we just have to wait until it cools off naturally. Hear, then, is what we mean by, "Turn off the Heat Wave"; You can add to the comfort of yourself and your family by serving meals that are prepared with foods that should be eaten in hot weather, such as—dairy products, vegetables of all kinds, but especially those that are to be used raw in salads. Iced tea or lemonade make excellent hot weather beverages, too . . . Depend on SFIRE'S to have all the foods you will need to serve the meals that will provide more comfort to your family in hot weather . . .
