

Genevieve B. Gay Wears Ivory Satin For Wedding Rites

Genevieve B. Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Gay, and William Clayton Anderson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Anderson, of Danville, Ky., were united in marriage at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at a ceremony performed by the Rev. Warner L. French in the St. James Episcopal Church.

Genevieve chose to wear a traditional bridal gown of heavy ivory satin—the same gown that her sister, Mrs. Robert Aldrich wore for her wedding. Complementing the bride's costume was a pearl tiara which held the long tulle veil in place, and a bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Aldrich, who was matron of honor for her sister, was dressed in a pale blue marquisette with a garland of deep pink snapdragons and baby's breath tied with green velvet ribbons in her hair. Her flowers were the same as those worn in her headdress. Similar gowns, different only in color, were worn by the two bridesmaids, Mrs. W. W. Price, who was in yellow marquisette, and Betty Hamilton, who chose green marquisette. Velvet ribbons matching their gowns were used to tie the bridesmaids' headresses which were made of pale pink snapdragons and baby breath.

Mrs. Gay's dress for the occasion was of a gray-blue silk crepe and she wore a corsage of baby pink tea roses and white carnations.

John B. Gay, Jr., brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were Robert W. Jantz, Weldo, W. Price, Robert Aldrich and Jerry Barone.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride's parents held the wedding reception at their home on Balmoral drive.

Judges Discuss Flower Exhibits For Garden Club

All of the exhibits at the Birmingham Garden Club meeting on Monday afternoon came from the gardens of members. Set up in the Ruth Shain room, the exhibits, consisting of specimen blooms, arrangements, and table settings presented a most attractive sight. A victrola table, done by Mrs. Arthur Ulrich, caused no end of comment. For the centerpiece Mrs. Ulrich had used a bouquet of pink roses and blue forget-me-nots in a crystal basket, while the dishes used carried out the same colors in a similar floral pattern.

After the meeting started, the exhibits were brought in one by one and were criticized just as they would be in a regular flower show by Mrs. Murray Rice, Mrs. Aaron Weber, and Mrs. Harold Klein, all of whom are certified judges.

A short business meeting was held and tentative plans were discussed for the annual garden pilgrimage to be held in August.

THE H. L. BREITENSTEINS, of Warren court, entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Martin and their daughter Peggy Ann, of East Lansing, over the weekend.
