Engineers Hear Dr. Ralph Lee
 Dr. Ralph L. Lee, public relations officer for General Motors Corporation, spoke to 50 members of the Oakland County Engineering Society and guests on Tuesday evening at the Community House. The importance of the individual worker in a corporation cannot be stressed too much, according to Dr. Lee, who stated that no one set of rules can be applied successfully to all individuals or corporations.

The more one understands his individual employee's problems and talents, the better are the results, Dr. Lee also made the point that by understanding one's own employee, he will be more able to understand the man or company for whom he works, thus making for a smoother running organization. Dr. Lee is a resident of Birmingham.
