

SPRING STYLES INTRIGUE THE YOUNGR SET

STOCKINGS ARE VARIED

Gone are the days when one pair of stockings sufficed for every activity. Today's well-dressed, busy women and girls have an entire "stocking wardrobe": nylon for dress, mesh or ribbed hose for country and workaday, and heavier checked and checked stockings for sports wear. The longer wearing qualities of these stockings are a boon to women busily engaged in defense and office work. In her personality and as long as

The Young Set Dates On Gadget Fashions

Gadget fashions are dear to the heart of every schoolgirl and pay an important part in accessorizing her wardrobe. They provide the chief way of expressing her personality and as long as fashion is new and different, the schoolgirl will take it in big doses. Many of the styles first accepted by the schoolgirl have later been taken up by the entire feminine world, proving the set's practical good sense.

Turbans Are Chic

It was the schoolgirl who introduced the scarf as a tamer of flying locks; then she took bows and flowers perched jauntily atop her curls, a fashion snapped up by women of all ages. Now, not one but two large flowers are the vogue. They are worn tucked down near the ears and are preferably large, like chrysanthemums and peonies, and may match or contrast with favorite sweater colors.

Also atop her head, the student has taken to wearing "beam" hats. Plain or decoratively embroidered for dress, they have practically done away with hair-iness for the school-age set.

Costume Suits Very Versatile

Time was when most of the amusing gadget-fashions had to be contrived by the girls themselves. However, gadgets have become as much a part of the school wardrobe as sweaters or pearls, and today there are constantly new ideas in wearables waiting for adoption by this gadget-loving set, to be seen in local shops catering to their whims.

In the in-between weather of spring, the costume suit is a welcome addition to any wardrobe, because of its versatile ability to be worn as a dress without the jacket and as a suit with the jacket.

There are many versions of this seasonal favorite; some in sport types, others in semi-casual and dress outfits. It is a practical fashion in keeping with the trend toward more functional clothes, and easily adapts itself to any occasion.

The dress is usually in one shade or print with the jacket matching.

Man in Uniform? Girls, Wear a Hat!

By Marion McEniry
Notice a group of nice young girls, with their sports, whip-lash hats and smart jackets for lunch last week. The men were in uniform—smart and trim from officers' caps to brilliantly polished boots. The girls were attractively dressed, long-haired—and hatless. Somehow they looked much too casual.

Their hatless informality paid their uniformed escorts no honor. It's an odd quirk of the times that so many men should suddenly be so much better groomed than their women.

Remember the days when women stormed at their husbands because they wouldn't pay them the compliment of getting into a dinner jacket, when society was all dressed up for the evening?

Now the shoe is on the other foot. The boys who, a year or so ago wore sloppy slacks or dirty "cords" are learning that a slovenly soldier is a poor soldier. To be "kempt" has taken on for them its original meaning of "to be self-respecting." They've learned appropriateness in attire; dress uniforms far dress occasions.

It's time the girls matched them in this sense of appropriateness. It's time to shed the pseudo "Hollywood" glamour, the hatless mode, the blown hair combed over luncheon tables, the carelessness.

Appropriately dressed, a woman can look so charming. Inappropriately dressed, she runs a mighty poor second to a man in uniform.

FROM "OLD SARGE": we learn that a man in uniform is forbidden to keep his hat off for any length of time—even when talking to a lady. Reason: Removing his hat "breaks" the uniform. Maybe that would be a talking point for us mothers to use with our daughters. Going hatless in street clothes breaks the ensemble.

That longer wearing quality seems to be one of the main things that women are looking for now—a-days, not only in hose but in frocks and coats. For the garment they buy this season may have to see service for several years what with wool needed for uniforms, etc.

Some Clever Ideas In New Jewelry

Woman's desire to adorn herself refuses to be hindered by the shortage of metals, for the colorful costume jewelry now being shown utilizes many other materials. First and foremost seen, there are plastics... clear or enameled with a special type of colored materials that glow like paint or treated with radium so jewels and are to be found in that they glow at night. From many animals and gemstones, only a part of the jewelry is forms. Many of them have a "treated" surface of a costly phosphorescent glow in the dark, painted glow, or centers of which puts them in the class of flower sprays.
