

Adams P.T.A. Planning Box-Supper and Variety Show for November 13

Parental Guidance Classes to be Divided

Mrs. Belle Farley Murray's class on "Parental Guidance," being given at Adams School under the sponsorship of the P. T. A., has become so large, that she has found it necessary to divide the class. The new division will meet at 10 a. m. on Fridays and the afternoon session will meet as usual at 2 p. m. on the same days. On Friday, Nov. 6, there will be no classes.

Mrs. Paul Romoser General Chairman For Annual Party

Friday evening, Nov. 13, is the date set by the Adams P.T.A. for its big event of the season—this year it's to be a box-supper and variety show, followed by an evening of varied entertainments. Mrs. Paul E. Romoser is general chairman of the party.

Assisting Mrs. Romoser are Mrs. Maledin W. Welby, Mrs. Mortimer Neff, and Mrs. William Balliet. Mrs. Fraser Pomeroy is business chairman, and Maledin W. Welby has agreed to lead the group in Community Singing.

The famous Sterling team of Detroit has been obtained to give their popular "punch and Judy" show, as well as a series of marionette and ventriloquist acts. Additional attractions will include a fish pond, fortune telling booth, and door prizes—a turkey for adults and candy for children.

In addition to the usual box-supper party arrangement, at this party each family group will bring and eat their own supper. Desserts, in the form of ice cream, cake, and coffee, will be sold and served by girls and cash grade girls, who lay the same grades are to act as bus boys. Boy Scout Cubs are to be on hand, and at the close of the evening will take over the cleanup activities.

"This Is Girl Scout Week"

Girls aren't barred from taking part in the National Defense program. Under the Girl Scout program, nearly 700,000 girls of the nation are serving their country by preparing for useful citizenship aiding their families, friends and communities and learning the skills that will be useful in emergencies.

Scouts' Victory Fund Explained Here

Girl Scouts in Birmingham, as well as all over the nation, are now celebrating annual Girl Scout Week. They have organized a united nationwide drive for a Victory Fund toward helping the war effort and to aid in solving some of the post-war problems. There are more than 700,000 Girl Scouts enlisted in this drive for "the alleviation of distress among the children of the world."

Through the Girl Scout victory fund every girl and adult is asked to buy at least one defense stamp in addition to her usual quota. This additional stamp is to be contributed to the general fund. These stamps will be converted into war bonds at national headquarters and held under the supervision of a special fund of trustees until such time as the money can be used to help suffering children. The Treasury Department has approved the Girl Scout Victory Fund and every one who believes in Girl Scouting sees the fund as a way in which Girl Scouts may show their loyalty, their desire to help others, and their belief that "the Girl Scout is sold by our business." Suspense-Laden "Incognito" Given by Village Players

The Village Players of Birmingham opened their twentieth season on Friday and Saturday nights Oct. 23 and 24, by presenting "Incognito," a mystery-comedy by N. Richard Nassbaum, for members and their guests.

A timely story of espionage, the entire action took place aboard a comedy, to break the tension, were played the part of a German-Jewish refugee. Moments of suspense were contributed by Helen Neff as the old maid school teacher, Gladys Rogers as the breezy secretary from New York on vacation, Joanne Baker as the seakick girl who lived on grape juices and Betsy Linton as Mrs. Thumblub, constantly drunk and irresponsibly friendly.

Ester Saunders, as Mrs. Bascomb, never forgot that she was socially above the other passengers, and made full use of every opportunity given her with her sharpened-claw wit to put them in their places. Hortense Adams acquitted dramatic suspense in her role as the unsuspecting daughter of the Jewish refugee. Mae Averill as Helen Clark, shipboard pianist, by her echo, Seedy Sloan, played through the latest Nazi agent, to whom she was married, "Don't know what you're doing" and revealed himself as the famous English spy.

their audiences with them from laughter to sitting on the edges of their chairs. Clem Penrose gave a most convincing picture of Nag ruthlessness as the German U-Boat commander, supported by a sneakingly brutal sailor, played by Tom King-Smith. Virginia Denham and Maude Mack changed dramatically from well trained American stenographers to dominating Nazis. George Dwellay as Director, assisted by Peg Led and Lois Hampton, handled the cast of sixteen most ably. Particularly to be mentioned was the deft grouping of many characters on so small a stage for the dramatic build-up of sustained suspense.
