

Great News

and THAT

By G. R. A.

Guns to Guns

Business manager of the Birmingham Public Schools, has suggested that the old gun, broken down from Fort Morgan, Mobile, Alabama, from Fort location on the Hill school grounds, be turned in for scrap to make more guns for the army. This reminds me that, in the summer of 1919, I was chief engineer of an ocean liner, the name of which was the S. Nazaire, France, and our ship, on the return voyage, brought back many used and unused military pieces that were destined to decorate the nation's school and court house yards. I suppose that many of these pieces will go into the current scrap iron campaign and eventually find their way back to foreign soil. So was this modern world—nothing is lost to the wages of our fathers' ways, back to the second and third and fourth generations.

Selling War Bonds To a Theatre Audience

Friday night of last week I had 35 minutes of mingled work and fun, in company with Howard C. Field, Birmingham's Birmingham Theatre, selling war bonds to an audience of 1,400 people. I felt as though I were back to the old days, both of us got up on the stage—and I suppose that the high cost of the bonds is being for the purpose of persuading people to part with their money. From the experience of the second and third night, I have, in the past, participated a number of times in public appeals from that stage. I have never recalled it being for the purpose of persuading people to part with their money. From the experience of the second and third night, I have, in the past, participated a number of times in public appeals from that stage. I have never recalled it being for the purpose of persuading people to part with their money.

Schools Awaiting Official Plans For Scrap Harvest

Birmingham school children and teachers will soon be busy with their part in the Scrap Harvest, in which 35,000 school children are expected to participate. The plan is to start on Saturday, Sept. 20, and will last for about 10 days. The total yield is expected to be about 310 tons.

RAIL BOY PROGRESSES

The business section of this week's roundup with the clutter of all news items is the story of a WPA worker continued to remove old street car rails from Woodland and the city. The rails, weighing about 87 pounds to the yard, is being trucked directly to the Birmingham Steel and Iron Works, where they will be melted down. The total yield is expected to be about 310 tons.

Fiery Attack on 'Pill Box' Ends Commando Show

Birmingham's own company of Commandos promised to do several jumps into the air. The show was a success, but the attack on the 'Pill Box' ended the show. The show was a success, but the attack on the 'Pill Box' ended the show.

Restore AID SEEN FOR COMRADES

AID SEEN FOR COMRADES. A headline in the Detroit News Friday of last week, indicated that the government was going to ration gasoline to the use of motor cars. This restriction is being put on the residents of every Detroit suburb to get back and forth to their work.

Restoration of AID SEEN FOR COMRADES

Restoration of AID SEEN FOR COMRADES. A headline in the Detroit News Friday of last week, indicated that the government was going to ration gasoline to the use of motor cars. This restriction is being put on the residents of every Detroit suburb to get back and forth to their work.

Destroyer To Be Named For Casualty

Robert Uhlmann, Lost at Pearl Harbor To Be Honored

A United States Navy destroyer now being built in New York will be named for Ensign Robert W. Uhlmann, who was one of two Birmingham men to lose their lives at Pearl Harbor in the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941.

Sugar for Canning Will End Saturday

Saturday will be the last day on which permits will be issued for the extra purchase of sugar for home canning, according to orders received by Mrs. Bege D. McCutcheon, who operates the branch office situated here in the basement of the Municipal Building.

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

Next Contingent In Draft Revealed

Forty-four men are scheduled to appear Monday, Sept. 28, at the Detroit Center where they will begin active duty in the Army.

Can't Get Lumber, Dealer Closes Shed

Clifford Lawson, of the Lawson & Son lumber yard, announced Wednesday that he is no longer possible to get stock. The company will continue to deal in deal and builders' supplies.

Seek Recruits for Corps Doing Hospital Recreation

Deperately needed right now in Oakland County are hospital and utility workers such as "Gray Ladies." Mrs. William C. Sproull, chairman of the hospital and recreation corps, said this week in announcing a new Gray Ladies' class which will start on Oct. 1. At present there are 43 Gray Ladies working at St. Joseph hospital and so many more are needed there, as are countless others at the other hospitals, she said.

County Officials All Successful In Renomination

Despite war-time patriotic appeals for a large vote, Birmingham electors went to the polls in the smallest primary numbers in almost ten years. Only 1,367 persons voted.

Crazy Indian Makes It Hot For Fishermen

A harrowing experience with a denuded Indian was told this week by G. Fredrick Mock, proprietor of the Photographic Shop. Mock and three other men engaged an Indian with a small boat to take them out fishing in Georgian Bay, Pt. Barrow, near Warton, Ont. Out in the bay, the Indian threatened one of the group with a hammer handle. Mock and the others subdued the Indian, who then jumped overboard. They pulled him up and he hauled him aboard, only to have him repeat the performance 15 minutes later, when he grabbed the ignition wire off the engine. Again the Indian jumped overboard. They pulled him up, he had lost the wire!

Exchangees Hear Gripsholm Refugee

A missionary who recently returned from China aboard the S.S. Gripsholm, addressed the Exchange Club Tuesday night. He is Arthur March, a relative of Mrs. Lloyd G. Chapman, who he visited at 80 miles an hour. He is a former missionary at Hangchow, China, he was among the first persons exchanged for Japanese interned here.

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)

What Our Soldiers and Sailors Really Want to Know

(Editor's Note: The greatest war-brother possible for our armed forces will come when our men throughout the world realize that the people back home are really plugging away unselfishly to further the war effort. These thoughts and others are expressed forcefully in this letter from Lt. Col. William C. Morgan, Jr., Michigan, England, written to his wife, Mrs. Helen Morgan, who lives with their two children at 4357 Arden Place, Beverly Hills.)