W-Home Drive Plans Aided in Birmingham

The American people accept and use the newspaper as a vital part of their democratic living; they know that the newspaper is the only institution in which the activities of the various churches; what the schools are attempting he also is aware of; who gets in trouble with the law, and what disposition is made of their cases, he gets from the public records; social affairs are revealed in each publication.

Indeed, most of a community's life revolves before their eyes, and much of it he reports for his readers.

Schedule Village Fair for Saturday, Sunday

The sun is a shining to well-wishers, for the day is bright and clear. High-heeled, come to the fair. The folks are all singing to meet you here. High-heeled, come to the fair.

Fair Speaker

The rest of this song has been revised by Mrs. Earl Battiloway.

Will Issue Emblem to Householders Who Assist Effort

A national drive to get homes to qualify for "W-Homes" stickers is now underway, and will soon start in Birmingham. Russell H. Fisher, chief air raid warden, will be in charge of the project in this city, and tonight is meeting with his two deputies, James S. Tuttle and Geoffrey Strickler, and their assistants, Constant L. Miller and Charles B. Randall, to discuss plans.
