Club Girls Carol In Festive Mood

In consideration of the lack of snow, the members of T. H. E. O. (To Help Each Other) tried to add their bit to keep the inhabitants of Birmingham in the Christmas spirit Wednesday night. To prepare for the festive evening, they indulged in a spaghetti dinner at Bettison Thurman's. Dressed in snow boots and blue jeans and each carrying a lighted candle, they made a glowing procession about the hills and dales of our town. The carols were appreciated by many generous citizens who contributed money which will be placed in their War Relief Fund.

But this was not to end the gala evening. They proceeded to Martie Gruber's home to thaw out frozen toes and red noses before the blazing log in the fireplace. When appropriately warmed, they carried on with refreshments and a Christmas party. Although their wish for Christmas snow was not granted, their fingers are crossed and their hopes high for snow for the big sleigh ride planned for Thursday evening.

Jo-Anne Herzberg Speaks Vows Before Altar of Greens

Jo-Anne Herzberg spoke her marriage vows to Lt. Delor J. Westerby before an altar banked with Christmas green, white gladioli, and white mums, Dec. 21, at 7 o'clock. The Rev. Charles C. Becker read the service in the Methodist church. Jo-Anne is the daughter of the Robert A. Herzbergs, of East Lincoln, and Delor is the son of the Carl B. Westerby, of Big Beaver.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white, fashioned with lace bodice, long sleeves, which tapered to tiny points over the wrists; and a sweet-heart neckline.

The skirt was of white net over taffeta. Jo-Anne wore a tiny crocheted cap from which a short veil fell to the waist. She wore a locket, a gift of the bridegroom, and her bridal bouquet was of white mums.

Her only attendant, Virginia Walsh, wore a gown of two shades of rose. The bodice was made of velvet, styled with sweetheart neckline and bracelet length sleeves. The skirt was of a lighter shade of rose taffeta. She wore a pearl Juliet cap and carried a colonial bouquet of pink mums and carnations.

Mrs. Theodore C. Wreeman was Delor's best man. Herbert and Thomas Herzberg and James Westerby acted as ushers.

Mrs. Herzberg chose a street-length dress of navy blue jersey for her daughter's wedding. She wore a navy hat trimmed with fur and her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Westerby wore a short dress of maroon crepe and matching hat. She wore carnations also.

The Herzbergs held open house in their home, on East Lincoln, immediately following the wedding party. There later was a reception for members of the family and the wedding party.

For her going away outfit the new Mrs. Westerby wore a two-piece wool dress of an aqua shade, with matching hat. Her shoes and purse were of brown alligator and her coat was a wine chesterfield.

Lt. Westerby left for his new post, Ft. Bliss, El Paso, Tex., on Monday. Mrs. Westerby plans to join him there shortly.
