That and THAT

Dear Harry Hopkins
Now, you take this chap Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's close confidant, Harry must be a fine fellow, must have his good points even though he has no public utterances, one does find an interesting man. Yet, contrasting his personal life with his public utterances, one does find an interesting man. Yet, contrasting his personal life with his public utterances, one does find an interesting man.

Why should there be cooks in night clubs?
A domestic servant will be a rare luxury. Not for you, O Day, so long as you stay in the White House.

Food, as an effective weapon of war in certain countries, has proved its value. For example, in the conquest of Dakar, the French army, led by General de Gaulle, played an all-important role, I am informed, in the conquest of Dakar.

There isn't an argument against it, that I can envision.
There may be some disagreement as to whether or not it should be removed from the United States; that, however, is a matter that will be decided at the monthly roll call.

Pilot on India-to-China Freight Line Pays Visit to Relatives in Birmingham

Birmingham's quiet streets present quite a contrast to the bustling Calcutta-to-Chungking aerial route, according to Capt. Ernest W. Loane, who is visiting here with his grandmother, Mrs. George M. Wallace, and his aunt, Mrs. R. H. Kirkpatrick, 208 George.

Loane is a time member of Gen. Claire Chennault's famous Flying Tigers. Capt. Loane is still employed by the Chinese government, but now is piloting Douglas DC-3 transports loaded with supplies as vital as medical supplies. He has made about 100 round trips, but, except for occasional scares from unidentified planes and bouts with the weather, the shuttle service has been rather uneventful.

The route, over mountainous terrain, is dangerous for the planes. They fly at 15,000 feet upward to get over certain peaks, and pilots know that engine trouble must be handled in the air without benefit of emergency landing fields.

War Gardens Program Here Gets Its Start

Seek Vacant Lots Which Can Be Used In Growing Food

For the first time in many years, gardening gets a top position on the agenda of the Mayor John E. Martz.

The reason is apparent. This is a war year and people are urged to grow as much of their own food as possible and to participate in home canning and preserving to relieve the shortage of factory-canned foods.

The project is under way early so that vacant lots can be arranged in plenty of time to make the program easier.

Following is Mayor Martz' statement:

"VICTORY GARDENS
"Planting, cultivating and harvesting Victory Gardens and producing their own food is an abundant Victory Garden crop is a necessary part of the Home Front in which every resident should participate.

"This effort needs two things: the volunteer work of many gardeners working the lots.

"Excuse me, but I know the reason for this call. Food rationing has increased its necessity. We can grow our own food, and it is essential to our economic and physical well-being. We can grow our own food, and it is essential to our economic and physical well-being.

"We urge everyone to cooperate in this effort. We are at the front and for ourselves economically and physically by operating hundreds of Victory Gardens. We can grow our own food, and it is essential to our economic and physical well-being.
