allowed to operate, there will be plenty for industry to produce, and this means employment for all. Our opportunity for post-war democratic survival is in direct ratio to the non-inefficiency of its operation by so-called "economic and social planners."
"I believe that we must be realistic in our present and post-war plans; we cannot apply, with any lasting success, a policy of international philanthropy; we may offer the world examples of our national optimism and youthful vigor, coupled with our industrial and financial flexibility of action—but we never can, as a self-governing people, assume that individual freedom of action can be had without the element of risk."
Frustrated Reformers
"As long as 80 years ago John Stuart Mill, the great economist, grappled with the problem of Democracy vs. Regime, or Planning. He stated that the usual reformer is a chap who, overwhelmed with a sense of frustration because his preachments appear to have little effect upon the masses, finally resorts to planned economy, headed by a few, 'for the good of the many.'
"But man's history has proved otherwise; indeed, that we are fighting this war over; democracy against totalitarianism. In our post-war days, though, we all must learn to be content with a 'normal profit; we must realize that over a period of 50 years of economic history in the United States, the average annual rate of economic progress, insofar as it relates to increased production of wealth, is only three per cent. This means, then, that such a rate, annually, is about all our economy can stand, successfully. When the rate jumps sky high, as it did in the 1920's, it is abnormal; we pay for it by a later depression."
Mr. Gardner declared that the United States must assume a world leadership after the war, but along the lines of practical help to other nations—and never on the basis of charity.

Capt. Fred Pew Gets New Post
—SELMAN FIELD, Monroe, La.—
Capt. Frederic C. Pew, post intelligence officer, left this week to take a new assignment in the personnel section of the headquarters of the Air Army Forces Southeast Training Center at Maxwell Field, Ala.
—Capt. Pew, whose home is Birmingham, Mich., had led previous S-2 section at Post Headquarters since arriving at Selman Field early last July. One of the first officers to join the then nuclear headquarters staff. Prior to his assignment here, he had been graduated from the AAF Officers' Training School at Miami Beach, Fla., and had stopped briefly at Maxwell Field, before being sent to Monroe. He attended Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.
Mrs. Pew will join her husband.

AN INSTRUCTOR
Lt. William P. Hatherley has been graduated from instructors school at San Antonio, Tex., and has been assigned as flight instructor to the Enid Army Flying School, Enid, Okla.

Amateur radio and photographic equipment is needed and will be purchased by the Army for training and operational purposes, according to an announcement made by Major General H. S. Aurand, commanding general of the Sixth Service Command with headquarters in Chicago.
A special purchasing office has been established in the Signal Corps Depot at 1903 W. Pershing Road, Chicago, under the direction of Capt. N. C. Craig.
The equipment needed includes commercially built transmitters and a number of communication receivers ranging from 25 watts to 450 watts, as well as corresponding types of receivers and installation material.
Especially desired are audio-frequency and radio-frequency signal generators and oscilloscopes, precision AC and DC voltmeters, ammeters, and milliammeters and other testing equipment.
In the photographic field the Army seeks motion picture cameras, animation cameras, projectors, sound producing equipment, printers and film examining machines for both 16mm and 35mm film.
High-speed still cameras will also be purchased. Exposure meters, filters and tripods of high quality are sought.
Owners of this equipment may write Capt. Craig giving full details, including the manufacturer's name, type number and serial number as well as brief description of the condition of the apparatus.

Franklin Firemen Sponsor Dance
The Franklin Fire Department is sponsoring a dance at the Franklin town hall Saturday night. Harvey J. Johnson, chairman of the affair, has secured an orchestra from Detroit, and refreshments will be served.
Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hematoghr are entertaining a dance for a cocktail party before the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Roseberry are also having a party.

HE KEEPS SKY CLEAR—Miss Mildred Blackney, North Westmont, Mass., has proven that she can handle an anti-aircraft gun as a Civil Service woman guard at the city's U. S. Naval Air Station. She'll greet suspicious planes with plenty of hot lead.

Firemen Answer Three Calls
Firemen answered three calls last week. Sunday, near 151 South Woodward, a radiator hose broke on the car of Calvin Trather, 336 Greenwood, and the alcohol caught fire, with minor damage resulting.
Saturday, at the Rudel Cole home, 1583 Raffner, sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof and a small hole was burned in it.
Last Thursday, at the Hans Mandel home, 201 Glenhurst, firemen stood by while soot burned out in a fireplace flue. There was no damage.

Says Clubs Must Support War Effort
Harry McFarlane, president of the Northwest Detroit Exchange Club, addressed the Birmingham club Tuesday.
"There's no excuse for a service club nowadays unless it does something for the war effort," he declared, describing some of his club's activities.
His club joined with other service clubs in sponsoring a bond auction which resulted in the purchase of $375,000 in bonds.

4 TIMES AROUND THE WORLD TO READ YOUR METER!

To read the meters of all our customers just once, meter readers travel by automobile over 100,000 miles through the cities, villages and farms of 58 Michigan counties.

You can see what savings of gasoline, tires and automobiles are made by reading the meters only once every two months instead of every month.

These savings mean something to Uncle Sam. And they mean something to you as a customer. For by prolonging the life of Company automobiles we keep in position to maintain essential service to your home and the place where you work.

Your bill for the month when your meter is not read represents a payment on account and keeps the account from piling up on you.
