Mrs. Roberts Has Interesting Career

"The entire story of my years in radio and as a lecturer is a combination of good luck and circumstances," says Betty Roberts of her success as former program director for WJBR, and advanced to staff relations on WJBR, manager of fashion shows and travel lecturer for hundreds of clubs on Alaska, Mexico, Quebec.

She started in the radio in 1927 as a singer on WXYZ, then called WJBR, and advanced to staff relations on WJBR, manager of fashion shows and travel lecturer for hundreds of clubs on Alaska, Mexico, Quebec.

As radio broadcasting changed, Mrs. Roberts found a new field in managing fashion shows for leading women's apparel shops in Detroit and carrying their advertisements to listeners on the radio. "I have broadcast advertising copy for every commodity from tooth paste to grand pianos, which is literally true," she adds.

How She Started

She started her lecturing career when a member of The Eccentric staff asked her to speak for a concert meeting of Lion's Clubs of Oakland County about her trip to Alaska. She was then in the process of conducting broadcasts made by the children during one of the late George E. Buchanan's lectures. The talk was so successful that women's groups began to request her for their meetings.

Romance by Mail

For three years, pretty Mildred Deman, Atlanta, Ga., stenographer, has been corresponding with Arthur Earnshaw of the Royal Navy. A friend advised Mildred's permission to give her address to a mail-hungry sailor, and they've never met. They plan to be married as soon as Arthur can visit the United States to meet his fiancée.

GIRL SCOUTS

Attention, Girl Scouts! Troop 8, Adams School is working on a badge in the field of International Friendship. Mrs. Alfred B. Hard talked to the girls recently about her life in China. At Christmas time three large boxes of used clothing and new toys were sent to a D.A.R. school for mountain children at Crossmore, N. C. This school sponsors a Girl Scout troop. They have since received a letter of thanks.

Troop 10 is at the same time proud and desolate because their popular leader, Mary Craig has enlisted and been accepted for the W.A.A.C.S.
