

Diebel Is to Regulate Rationing Control

The old axiom: "It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good," especially in the West, is a truism. Its relation to rabbits and pheasants; these birds and animals are a purveyor of the game laws, with the seeds being planted, or the foliage of certain garden plants. Even so, it is certain to some, wind things...

Have You volunteered yet in any way for the project? If not see Volunteer list below on this page!

SIXTY-SIXTH YEAR—NO. 16

BIRMINGHAM, OAKLAND COUNTY, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, JULY 15, 1943

$2.00 PER YEAR (In Oakland County)—SINGLE COPIES, 5c

HS and THAT

By G. R. A.

An Example of Why Practical Help is Shunned in Washington

I'm intensely alert and observing newspaper friend, Schuyler L. Russell, publisher of the Clinton County Republican-News, at St. Johns, Michigan, last week presented me with a copy of his paper. The whole thing seems to center in divided authority; or paradoxical as it may sound, the centralization of authority in the President.

School Leaders Struggle to Maintain Quality, Is Report to Taxpayers

Birmingham's public schools, in spite of the impact of the war, are holding their own, both financially and in standard of educational facilities, it was stated in an official report, and the varied problems, especially those dealing with hiring and keeping good teachers, is expected to become progressively more of a task.

In Service BULLETIN New Legion Project

Sherwood School, 25-room mansion formerly known as the Albert Champion home, was almost totally destroyed by fire early Wednesday evening.

Supervisors Split in Diebel Salary Issue

Legality is Doubtful Says County Lawyer Before Board Votes

Playing Cards Henry E. Edwards, Dies Suddenly

Subject of Drive Chairman of Bank, Dies Suddenly

When he arrived home he told associates he was powerless to make decisions, or to do anything to straighten out the confusion. He told the story substantiated in this way: "A letter would come from some big concern handling or processing food. The letter would mention I understood their problem. I understood the rules that would apply. I would then tell the public and myself. Immediately I would write them a letter. I would then tell them the business terms used in the food business. I would then tell them short and to the point."

Volunteers Behind Schedule in Issuing 'A' Gasoline Books

Many drivers won't get their new 'A' gasoline books until July 21 unless more volunteers help, it was secured, Mr. Helen Genung, chief clerk of the OPA office, 116 South Woodward announced today.

All Men in Family Serve Uncle Sam

Not many families have the father and two children in the military service, but this is the case with the Reavis family who lived on the Crooks road near Wattles. All three men are in the Navy.

Swim Show Set July 28; Circus, Too

There will be a swimming pageant Wednesday evening at 7:30 hours at the Barnum pool put on by the children who have progressed in swimming and are coming to the event with a South American theme and there will be two special events. One will be put on by the boys and one by the girls.

E. H. Fletcher Pays Tax Under Protest

Ernest H. Fletcher, 2215 Tottenham road, a Detroit certified public accountant, said his current taxes under protest and addressed a letter to the City Commission Monday night, criticizing the recent increase in valuation of his property.

Lightning Hits House, Puts Police Radio Out of Commission

A severe thunderstorm occurred in Birmingham Monday afternoon, continuing steady rain and putting the police radio transmitter out of commission.

Coupons Confiscated From Auto Speeders

Coupons were confiscated from several speeders after hearings held this week by the OPA board here.

Cautions the Public On Imitation Brick

"Investigate before you invest" was the warning sounded Wednesday by H. H. Corson, acting City manager, when he was selling imitation brick bidding for houses.

Compares 1943 Gardening With That of Last War

Last week Mrs. Marjorie T. Bingham, botanist at the Cranbrook Institute of Science, toured several score victory gardens in this area as one of the judges in the contest, she found things reminiscent of the First World War.

Birmingham Pilot Sinks Destroyer

That their son, Fred L. John K. Martin, has been officially credited with sinking a large enemy destroyer, awarded the Purple Heart and several other awards in five months of combat flying on the North African front is the good news that has come to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Martin, Oakland avenue.

Man, 83 Is One of District's Oldest Victory Gardeners

One of the oldest victory gardeners in the Birmingham area is Harry Russell, 83-year-old retired electrician, 1138 Beverly road, near Southfield.

Fire Rates Cut In Bloomfield Village

The acquisition of a fire engine by Bloomfield Villagers—an unincorporated community west of Birmingham—has already borne fruit, it was learned this week, and householders may apply for a reduction in their fire insurance rates.

Ens. Uhlmann Picture To Be On Display

The portrait of Ensign Robert W. Uhlmann, who was a destroyer pilot, and a Pontiac fire were selling imitation brick bidding for houses.

'LITTLE GIANTS'

That is a good description of Eccentric classified ads. Your ad, which probably will cost you as little as 45 cents (cash rate), is read by several thousand people weekly and will surprise you with its power.

Why Not Find Out for Yourself?

Phone 11 before 4 p. m. Make up, Lunched Records. New rate 15c weekly. Licensed Records. ad 2c.