Esakridge, of Royal Oak, recently of Birmingham, and Dale H. Hummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hummel, of Union City, on Sunday, June 27. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William W. Wilson in the presence of members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The altar was decorated with baskets of pink roses and white lilies.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Guy Jackson, of Pontiac, the bride wore a white marquisette gown trimmed in lace and fashioned with a fitted bodice, long puffed sleeves, and a full skirt that ended in a long train. From a Juliet cap of orange blossoms, fell a finger-tip tulle veil edged in lace. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses tied with long white satin streamers.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Clarence Roberts, of River Rouge, was matron of honor, and another sister, Mary Eskridge, of Royal Oak, was maid of honor. They wore gowns of pink and aqua marquisette and lace made with fitted bodices, full skirts and shirred breech-length sleeves.

The bridesmaids were Mary Laska, of Detroit, and Mary Hummel, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were yellow and blue marquisette with satin bodices, short puffed sleeves, and full skirts. The attendants all carried bouquets of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Glenn Hummel was his brother's best man and the ushers were William Visser, Wayne Smith, and Charles Hummel, all of Union City.

Wedding Trip Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents. After a short wedding trip, the couple will live in Ypsilanti.

Out-of-town guests included: Clarence Roberts, of River Rouge, Mrs. Guy Jackson, of Pontiac, Mrs. Forrest Hart and Jeanne Hart, of Birmingham, and Margaret Livingston, of Dayton.

Mrs. Hummel is a graduate of Baldwin High School and Mr. Hummel is a graduate of Jackson High School in Jackson, O.

Fall Flattery Flattery is this harbinger of, fall fashions designed of sea-dust sheer wool, with a black velvet bodice and soft roll collar trimmed with white beaded gold buttons.

Lucy Van Dyke, sister of the bridegroom, sang two selections before the ceremony with Constance Peck at the organ. Raymond A. Peck sang "The Lord's Prayer." Approaching the altar on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of heavy white satin fashioned with slim princess lines, the full skirt ending in a train. An inset of lace set off the sweetheart neckline of the fitted bodice and the long sleeves fell in points over her hands. A finger-tip veil of illusion was fastened to a coronet of orange blossoms by a wide ruffle of lace. Her flowers were white roses and stephanotis.

Wreaths of Flowers Marie Jackson was her sister's maid of honor in a gown of peach chiffon made with fitted bodice, bouffant collar, and short puffed sleeves. Inset of lace trimmed the bodice and waist. She wore a wreath of flowers in her hair and carried lavender sweet peas and Johanna Hill roses.

Bridesmaids were Elsie Johnson, of Lansing, classmate of the bride, Betty Wells, of Detroit, Antoinette Wark, of Detroit, and Thelma Gorrell, of Kalamazoo. They wore gowns similar to the maid of honor's. Miss Johnson's and Miss Wells' dresses of yellow chiffon were set off by bouquets of orchid asters. Miss Wark and Miss Gorrell wore dresses of aquamarine chiffon and carried bouquets of yellow daisies. Connie Stephens, cousin of the bride, was flower girl in a gown of peach chiffon with a coronet of flowers in her hair.

Alten Kurtz, of Chicago, was best man. Seating the guests were William McKinzie, of Lansing; Morse Bettison, also of Lansing; Don Diehl, of Detroit, and Morton Work, of Detroit.

To Live in Florida Mrs. Jackson chose a powder blue dress for her daughter's wedding with white accessories. Mrs. Van Dyke, who with her husband came from Battle Creek for the ceremony, wore black with white accessories. Both had corsages of sweetheart roses.

Blue delphinium and white daisies decorated the church parlors for the reception that followed the ceremony. The newlyweds left for a short honeymoon in Northern Michigan, the bride dressed in a jacket dress of white and green linen with green accessories, a small white hat, and a corsage of white roses.

They will live near Fort Myers, Fla., where Corp. Van Dyke is stationed, with the Army Medical points over her hands. A finger-tip

How to Melt Down Solid Fats

The restricted supply of meats has made it important to salvage a higher percentage of the cooking fats which go into the average housewife's home. A tremendous amount of fat is discarded in the form of solid fat trimmed from meat before it is prepared, or left in the plates.

Melt down solid fats in the double-boiler or with a little water in a shallow pan under a slow flame in the oven.

Work Discussed at Teachers' Meeting

"A Vital Service to Your Country in Wartime ..."

From a talk by Major General Olmstead on "The Telephone Hour," May 24, 1943

"As a SOLDIER, I want to thank the quarter of a million women in the telephone business—Bell and Independent—for the work they are doing. As Chief Signal Officer of the Army, I have special reason to know of its importance.

"To you telephone women in the cities, towns and villages all over America I should like to send a special message. Whether you work at a commercial counter, a switchboard, a desk or a typewriter, you are an essential part of America's communications system and are rendering a vital service to your country in wartime. ..."

meaning. Communications changed overnight from a service of peace to an instrument of war—an essential instrument in trained hands that know how to keep it fighting for victory. The responsibility of keeping open the lines of communication rests with each of you—and it is a big responsibility in time of war.

HERE'S WAR WORK FOR WOMEN Michigan Bell offers many opportunities for women of 16 or older who would like to have a part in vital war work. Telephone work offers you pleasant surroundings, pay while you are in training, regular wage increases, stable employment, vacations with full pay, and opportunities for advancement. No previous experience is required. For full information about this vital war work, telephone or visit the local telephone office between 9 A. M. and 5 P. M. any day except Sunday. Persons now in other war work should not apply. MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
