African Mementoes Put on Display
Objects from the Barbary Coast of Africa are displayed during March at the museum of the Grant Institute of Science. Other work which helped make Morocco famous; build up the country; and give it a characteristic Mohammedan design, elaborate tobacco pipes and decorated footwear are among the things shown which will give a foretaste of the souvenirs which may be expected from the expeditionary forces. These things, though collected a half century ago by Frederick Lugard, of Morocco, Algeria and Tunisia are very much the same as those still used and used by the Arabs and the large part of the children of Tunis and Algeria are still hemmed in by sea and desert.
