Detroit Edison Girls Entertain

Mrs. Robert W. Chisnu, of East Maple, was hostess at a lawn party given in honor of Grace Murdoch last Thursday. The Detroit Edison girls were those honoring Grace. They presented her with a lovely feminine badger.

After the supper party the guests gave a surprise handkerchief shower for another one of the hosts, Mary Elizabeth Currie, who is leaving the Edison Co. also. Blanche Brooks, Virginia Ladd, Dorothy Jantz, Mary Elizabeth Currie, Mrs. Clyde Murdoch, Mrs. Phoebe Simpson, Ruth Lawes, Virginia Durfee, Patricia Craig, Barbara Fletcher, Betty Traxler, Dorothy Taylor, and Lillian Grosz were the guests.

Practical Courses In Dist. Education, Office Practice

Plans have been completed for Co-operative Training Course in Distributive Education and Office Practice at Baldwin High School for the coming year in accordance with plans set up by the State Board of Control for Vocational Education. It was announced this week by Supt. Dwight B. Ireland.

According to the Manual issued by the State Board of Control, the purpose of Co-operative Business Education Training programs is:

1. To train an individual for a job.
2. To train an individual for promotion.

The program at Baldwin High School will carry out these ideas as far as possible in connection with its regular classes.

Mrs. Halladay, who has been a teacher in Baldwin High School for two years, will again be in charge of the Office Practice training.

A new teacher, Mrs. Kathryn Lightell, will teach the classes in Distributive Education and act as Co-ordinator for both the office practice group and the Distributive Education group. Distributive Education is that type of education which deals with goods and services. It will be the job of the co-ordinator to contact the employers of the students on the job and to work with the employer in educating the student in specific problems that arise in connection with his particular job.

Mrs. Lightell comes to the Birmingham schools directly from the business world. She has been for the past three years in charge of employment and training of new salespeople for Winkelman Bros. Apparel, Inc., in Detroit. Prior to this position she had considerable experience in retail sales, and six years' experience as a high school teacher from the background she has a great deal to offer students interested in preparing for careers in retailing.

Students who are interested in taking part in the Co-operative training program for the coming year should report to the High School sometime between 9 a. m. and 12 noon, September 7th through 10th, and discuss their schedules with Mrs. Darling, girls' counselor, or Mr. Chapman, boys' counselor. If they are able to meet the requirements they will be referred to Mrs. Lightell who will be in her office each day from 9:00 a. m. to 12 noon.

Rotarians Stage Mock 'Trial' at Monday Meeting

In the absence of a scheduled speaker Monday noon, Birmingham Rotarians staged a "mock trial" of former president Walter B. Faulstich, who was elected to the remainder of the Club was while the first verse of America. It was conducted by President Howard R. Estes, who selected the complainant, Forbes Hascall; the prosecutor, Louis A. Hascall; attorney for the defense, George E. Averill; judge, Bob McKee; Jurymen, Dwight B. Ireland, Bill Story, J. Mark Hardin, and three visiting Rotarians.

Chief "witnesses" were Ray A. Cook and Harry E. Bissett. The "trial" of course, was dominated by "horse-play," resulting in much amusement. "Prosecutor" Hascall presented a dignified cross-examination, while Averill mixed dignity with indignity—finally winning his "client's" case by telling the jury that, "since the defendant, Faulstich, is a local telephone manager, if you fail to acquit him you'll not only get wrotch telephone numbers but you may also lose your telephones."

Acquittal, however, brought with it the provision that Mr. Faulstich render a solo of the verse at the Club's next meeting, which will be resumed in the Community House; the last two meetings were held in the local Evangelical Lutheran church, on West Maple avenue.

Holy Name School Re-opens Sept. 13

Father Duncan, pastor of Holy Name, announced this week the return of Mother Joan Thross, I. H. M., as principal, and the same faculty that staffed the school last year. A new addition is Sister M. Cleora, I. H. M., an experienced child instructor who comes to Birmingham to direct the new kindergarten classes which are to be held in the mornings in the Alumni House.

The Arthur Jaeger Studios of Detroit have done over the former rectory, now termed the Alumni House. All the modern apparatus for the conducting of the kindergarten work has been installed. A final registration for new pupils in this department and the elementary grades will take place on Sunday, Sept. 13, at the convent on Harmon. The school phone number is 1301.

HOME ON LEAVE

Ensign Samuel Vetrinadin, of Bloomfield Hills, who graduated from Abbott Hall, Chicago, Aug. 29, has been spending his recent leave with his parents. He will leave for Solomons, Md., on Friday.

Chita first used tea as a medicine. The earliest reference to it was found in a Chinese dictionary nearly 4,000 years old.

'Overseas Cigaret Fund' Begun Here

Through the combined activities of the Charles Edward Post of the American Legion and the Wilson Drug Co., Birmingham and vicinity will have its own "Overseas Cigaret Fund." This was announced this week as plans took shape for the acceptance of contributions, either mailed direct to the Post, or placed in a special box on display at the Wilson Drug Co. store. A special coupon for this purpose may be found in the latter's advertising in this newspaper.

Because the federal government in this plan waives its cigarette tax, and the cigarette companies make price concessions, each package of cigarettes will cost only five cents—so for every dollar paid in 20 packages of popular brand cigarettes will be sent to them overseas.

Cigarettes are not sent to individuals, but are forwarded to officers in charge of ports of embarkation, who distribute them to troops and to foreign theatres of war, according to the need and available shipping space.

Contributions mailed in should be accompanied by the coupon referred to above, so that proper credit may be given to the donor. Checks or money orders are preferred, if cash is sent, it should be wrapped securely.

Mich. President Of Women Voters Addresses League

An enthusiastic audience of old and new members of the League of Women Voters heard Mrs. Frank Haskins, of Flint, president of the league in Michigan, explain that now is the crucial time to get a few basic facts before most people, rather than to concentrate on individual study groups.

The general meeting followed a picnic lunch at the home of Mrs. Ralph Yonker, Birmingham president, on Wednesday, Aug. 25.

Mrs. Haskins pictured the background of the league, which traced its origin to the missionary societies, W. C. T. U. and woman's suffrage movements and was originally organized after the enfranchisement of women to promote education in citizenship for the new voters.

She outlined the local, state, and national organization, explaining how the national program is arrived at by delegates from the local leagues who go to the national convention as free agents; but support the decisions arrived at by the whole.

The national organization in Washington is in close touch with legislation and foreign policy, thus making the aroused face readily available to the local leagues.

Mrs. Haskins emphasized that the league is strictly non-partisan, interested primarily in good government.

She spoke of the high prestige of the league and touched on some of its past accomplishments, as, for example, the Community Act legislation. Not the least of these, she said, is the "everlasting watchdog" role that laws, once passed, are kept in force.

This year, in Michigan, the child labor code is to be the chief subject of concentration.

Since the governor must recommend everything on the agenda of the special session of the legislature, the league's object is to arouse public opinion to the need of the Michigan program for protection of coordination of Public Health and Welfare societies, and a child labor code, that these will be placed on the agenda before the special session.

The chief interest this year throughout the league as a whole is in the foreign policy, with emphasis on world cooperation, Mrs. Haskins concluded.

Executive and advisory meetings were held in the morning, when Mrs. Haskins spoke on the techniques of handling local league affairs.
