Have Patience

Neighbor — How is that incubator doing that you bought?

Mrs. Newbride — I suppose it's all right, but I'm a little worried about it. It hasn't laid a single egg yet.

Editor—I sent a man West to get a picture of the husband of a movie actress.

Jones—Did he get it?

Editor—Yeah, he stayed away a month and sent back pictures of three husbands.

Why we still talk about "QUALITY" during a beer shortage

DAY AFTER DAY our friends ask why we are so concerned about maintaining Altes "quality" . . . when there is such a big demand for more beer.

"Beer drinkers don't expect quality in war times," they say. "Why don't you use substitutes for scarce ingredients . . . and go to town?"

We answer them by saying that we feel it's our obligation to every Altes customer to see that the beer he gets meets the high Altes standards to which he is accustomed. We do not want a big extra volume now if the Altes we brew cannot be a quality beer. Every time you open a bottle of Altes we want you to taste that clean, clear, tangy Aged-In, Sealed-In flavor you know so well.

Prime ingredients are essential in brewing Altes Lager. If substitutes were used, there would be little reason for our exclusive Aged-In, Sealed-In brewing process . . . for this costly method of brewing was specially developed to completely preserve the natural flavor of the top-quality ingredients we have always used.

"So," we say, "it looks like Altes will have to go ahead right through the period of wartime scarcities, making as much as we can of the best beer we can."

Sports Showup

The much improved and well coordinated Maple eleven, crushed a wavering East Detroit squad 19-0 last Friday night at Pierce Field. Scoring honors for the game were equally divided among Tom Spiegel, Bud Keller, and Dick McConkie, each of whom scored one touchdown. The one conversion was made by Conway Adams.

—o—

One of Baldwin's alumni, Hugh Mack, halfback on the University of Michigan football team, also made a good showing over the weekend by playing one and a half quarters in the Western Michigan College game at Ann Arbor, last Saturday. During the time he was in, he managed to intercept one of Western Michigan's passes. Both Hugh and Harry Watts (Baldwin's star pivot man last year) are on the Michigan squad this season. —o—

Several of the service men, who were guests at the Bond Assembly last week, were seen at the East Detroit game. They seemed very happy to be back, cheering for their old alma mater once more.

—o—

It really did our hearts good the other night at the game to hear once again some of that good old Baldwin brand of cheering.

—o—

Seaman second class Jack Hipple, former Maple cross country and half mile star, sends Baldwin his best wishes for a successful football and cross country season. Above all he says, "Beat Royal Oak." Jack is now stationed at the Armed Guard School, at Gulfport, Miss. Former managing editor, John Harwood, of the Eccentric, is also at the Gulfport school. Perhaps the two will get together after seeing this.

—o—

The Varsity Club is planning to put sport pictures on display in the "Hall of Fame" trophy case, in the lower hall at Baldwin. The case was installed at the close of school, but many pictures are ready. With both Coach Engel and Coach Wurster gone, some of the continuity of the plan has been disturbed, but Don Fisher, president, and Fred Zoellin, vice president, will proceed with the work.

—o—

Much disappointment at the absence of the public address system at the East Detroit game was expressed by fans, particularly those who had not yet seen the team in action. It is hoped that this big aid to enjoyment of the game will be in use at all remaining home games.

—o—

Thanks are due The Eccentric for printing cards with players' names, weights, positions, etc., for distribution at the game. Supplemented by the little Maple schedule cards given out this week, they will give fans the background information needed to follow the games.

Time for Another Scrap Steel Drive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—The coming iron and steel scrap drive, scheduled to get under way on Oct. 1 and to last until mid-November, gained a great deal of momentum here during the past week. No acute scrap shortage exists at the present time, such as was experienced early in 1942, when mills were forced to close down. But in many of the big steel-producing areas there are only sixty-day inventories available. The purpose of the drive is to build up sufficient reserves to keep all of these mills going during the coming winter months.

Usually summer months see piles of scrap increased. But this year because of the huge increases in production and the shortage of ore caused by a late season and coal strikes, the backlog has been dwindling. WPB hopes to collect 15,000,000 tons of metal scrap during the latter half of this year.

Nearly ten million of these tons are expected to come out of industry, Donald M. Nelson, WPB Chairman, wired various industry groups last week asking for their full cooperation and support in the program, to the extent of 15 per cent more scrap from them than in the first half of this year.

General Brehon Somervell has also placed Army manpower and facilities at WPB's disposal to collect scrap. Major General Henry S. Aurand, of the Sixth Service Command, has assured Detroit WPB salvage chief, John D. McGillis that he will place trucks and men from the several posts and camps throughout the state, also MP's, at his disposal.
