Is G. I. Pin-up Girl "Warrior's Husband" Being Presented At Cranbrook This Week

Working frantically against time, the three casts of "Warrior's Husband," climatic play of the season of the Cranbrook Summer School of the Theatre, put on the first of three performances before the public on Wednesday evening (Aug. 17) of this week at 8:30 p. m. in the Greek Theatre at Cranbrook, Bloomfield Hills.

Kenneth Wood, stage manager, contrived an interesting method for the theatre which permitted the use of set changes. Assisted by Ed Ribolin and Peter Harcourt, he simulated the palace of the Amazons, Queen Hippolyta, and various places of the battle plains.

The Wednesday cast was headed by Marty McKinney and Sonya Drews, as Hippolyta and Antiope, the ruling Amazons. Donna Polczynski and Nancy Sanders will take the same parts tonight, and on Friday, Ada Ward and Pat Newhall will be the rulers of Pontus.

Ted Mansfield plays the humorous Sapiens all three nights, and Dana provides the love interest as Theseus. Jim Starr and John Van Teem are Homer and Hercules, respectively, and Ed Ribolin, Carl Wenberger, and Terry Hatch are Greek warriors and heralds. Polly Saunders, Jean Helson, Lois Burton, Marjorie Smith, Carol Boyce, Edith Kendall, Barbara Ulrich, Etti Scheffele, Elaine Newhall, Joan Pasher, Elizabeth Boyne, Mary Mahon, Betty Cady, Frances Mead, Marilyn Hanniken, Ruth Mills, Ann Drake, and Mary Zenin, Mary Quinn complete the roster of Amazons. Nancy Neumann dances.

Nonetheless is the actor and is assisted in his various duties by Annetta Bouton Wannberger, Mrs. Frank Mahon, Mrs. Alice Anderson, and Ruth Mills.

"Warrior's Husband," vehicle of both stage and movies, is the original from which the present Ray Bolger show, "By Jupiter," was constructed for the Broadway show founded on the remainder of the husband of an Amazon spouse in the latter women rule. The Cranbrook version is scheduled for a series of camp and hospital appearances after the close of the regular season.

Special Rules For Home Canning Are Issued By The OWI

To help home canners prevent accidents, causing specialists of the Department of Agriculture have prepared 12 safety rules. They are:

1. Avoid oven canning. Exploding jars cause serious accidents.
2. Inspect jars to be sure there are no cracks, bubbles or other defects. These are danger spots that may cause jars to break.
3. Try out tops and make sure you know how to adjust them correctly. Some tops require looser adjustments than others and too tight during canning steam built up in jars will cause them to break.
4. When using the three-piece type of jar top, leave enough "give" to allow air in the jar to escape during canning. The metal screw band must be screwed loosely over the glass lid and top-shoulder so that the threads are just meshed in enough to hold the top in place during canning.
5. Avoid burns on your hands by using a thick cloth or good strong tongs to pick up hot jars.
6. Turn saucpan handles so they don't come out over the edge of the stove.
7. Watch a boiling water bath canner so that it doesn't boil over and maybe hot out a gas flame.
8. Make sure a steam pressure gauge is clear and clean, so that steam can escape from the pet cock freely.
9. Make sure there is enough water in a steam pressure canner so it doesn't boil dry.
10. Slide any hot or heavy container away from the heat rather than try to lift it.
11. Before opening a steam pressure canner, let the excess drop to zero, wait a minute or two, then open the pet cock slowly.
12. When lifting a steam pressure canner lid, tilt the far side up to protect yourself from escaping steam.
