(Continued from Page 1) other savage spectacles. It is still in very good state of preservation and according to estimates seated between 30,000 and 50,000 people.

Our feet started to give out at this point so we hired a horse and carriage for an hour and although the driver spoke only Italian, we managed to get along all right.

After supper we went window shopping as most of the stores are the hangovers of the boys. Incidentally, it had central heating which I understand is a modern innovation. From there we went back the same way and passed the building "The Muse" was constructing for the administration of North Africa. It was never completed for obvious reasons, but judging from the size of it, he anticipated doing quite a little business in those regions.

PROGRAM

Handicraft was curtailed somewhat where because of the difficulty in obtaining leather and other vital materials but many new projects were introduced.

Finger-painting was particularly quiet games occupied their time. Games and hikes were always popular.

Tennis proved very popular this summer with the direction of Jane McKee. Children showed unusual interest in learning and some day have developed into expert players.

The Council of Church Women arranged and conducted classes in religious education one hour in length at each playground.

Baseball Leads One of the highlights of the summer program was the baseball program, chiefly because it included boys in a range of ages from 10 to 18.

Each playground contributed material for at least one team from the Midlet Team to the older boys. In all ten teams played and their only worry was that in the city of Birmingham there is only one baseball field.

The Birmingham Recreation Board wishes to thank all the citizens and organizations who contributed so generously of their time and services which helped to make the program an outstanding success.

Lathrap Townsite News

By LILLIAN DIEDERICH

Three Townsite Men Are Listed Among Recent Casualties

Several casualties head this column today and it is with deep regret I report them. The Townsite extends deepest sympathy to the bereaved, and to those anxiously waiting for more news regarding their wounded.

First Lieut. Don C. Tansy, age 30, artilleryman brother of Marguerite MacCacken, of Southfield college, Grosse Pointe, Mich., was killed in France August 18th, his father John L. Tansy, 3004 Grand avenue, was notified Friday. Memorial service will be at St. Edwards church, Grand avenue, Detroit, at 10 A.M. Sunday.

Surviving besides his father and sister Mrs. E. J. MacCacken, a brother, Sgt. Larry Tansy overseas; another sister, Marcelle, at home. His mother preceded him in death last May.

Cpl. John P. Dorr, age 30, artilleryman, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dorr, 18625 Rosswood drive, was wounded in the Pacific theatre his parents were notified Saturday. He enlisted in September 1942. His parents were waiting news from Red Cross.

Lieut. Frank J. Starr, 23, navigator with the 8th Army Air Force in Italy, is interned since July 22 in Switzerland after completing eight missions over enemy territory. In a letter written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Starr, 28255 Woodworth Way, Lathrap Townsite, he stated he is well and the countryside is beautiful. He wrote that several U.S. servicemen are there and that their duties are varied; they go to school mornings and work afternoons. Lieutenant Starr has been in service 18 months, and received his 12th birthday in the field, Field Texas, in May. His final training was at Colorado Springs after which he went overseas. His wife is the former Marie McFadden of Broomfield Park who was enlisted in the 48th Army Air Corps and is a June 1939 graduate of Cooley high school.

Lieut. Rowland Starr, 23, USA, was transferred from a Pacific cruiser to Landing Tank Medium in training with the 48th Army Air Corps and is a June 1939 graduate of Cooley high school.

Bloomfield Village Collection Sept. 6, 7

The next paper pickup for Bloomfield Village is to be on Sept. 6 and 7, with the collection on the 6th, according to word from the village today.

Residents are reminded by the committee to have their newspapers and other salvage outside the Good Will trucking area.

A special feature is that of organized camps prepared for them. They should be washed, dried, ironed, and packed in boxes for themselves.
