Placements of World War II veterans in Michigan by the War Manpower Commission's United States Employment Service, according to a statement of increasing trend. Edward L. Cushman, WMC director for Michigan, said:

"The May total of 1048 compared with 985 placements of veterans in Michigan in April shows a gain of about 8 percent over the preceding month. This indicates that the effective operation of the special veterans' program in United States Employment Service offices throughout Michigan," Cushman declared. "The veterans' service program, which has been operating in USES offices for a long time, has recently been expanded and improved and is now meeting immediate needs of those now returning from the armed forces, but establishing sound and effective patterns for action when victory is won and the problem of the returning veterans assumes major proportions."

Five Opportunities
Five specific training opportunities are available to discharged veterans of this war under the program of the War Manpower Commission and the Federal Security agency.

1. Vocational training which will be of benefit to themselves and also help the war effort through the Federal Security agency.

2. Engineering Science and Management War Training program operates through more than 200 colleges and universities and provides short, intensive courses, including: engineering, chemistry, physics and business management. Administered by the U. S. Office of Education of the Federal Security Agency through selected colleges and universities.

3. Food War Training Program. Train farmers in vocational and achieving production goals, in the maintenance and repair of farm machinery, and other agricultural workers. Administered by U. S. Office of Education through state and local boards of vocational education.

4. WMC Training Within Industry Service. In cooperation with private industry and with state boards of vocational education provides intensive, short courses for supervisors and instructors.

5. Vocational Training for War Production Workers Program. Conducts training in vocational skills of plants, trade, new and employed workers in specific, single- and "upgrade" work. The program is administered by the U. S. Office of Education through state and local boards of vocational education.

These services have trained more than 12,000,000 workers for war industries. Cushman pointed out, and have extensive experience in the "know-how" of the training job.

Keith Gilchrist Says Army Men are Buying 5th War Loan Bonds

Dear Editor:

I am now a member of the armed forces at an Infantry Replacement Training Center, Camp Fannin, Tex. The men in training here replace the casualties on every battlefield in the world.

This evening the men of the 82nd Battalion, of which I am a member, held a bond rally the result of which, I think, merits some attention. There are 830 men and officers in the 82nd and they have raised a total of $35,332 in bonds since the beginning of the war. An impressive total, you must admit, from the men who may give up their money before the war is over. I know from camp maintenance records, that this is not the exception but rather the rule. From the Eccentric I know that the people of Birmingham are also doing their part in this new drive.

Sincerely,
PVT. KEITH J. GILCHRIST

RUSSIA TO BUY GOODS

Post-war industry will profit by "purchasing billions of dollars' worth of American goods," which will be purchased by the Soviet Union, according to Eric Johnston, president of the United States Board of Commerce, who is in Russia.

Post-war bargains will come to the buyer who is patient!
