Barbara Curtis is Married At Christ Church Cranbrook

Christ Church Cranbrook was the scene of the lovely candlelight marriage ceremony of Barbara Jean Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Goodrich Curtis, and Lieut. Robert West Jones, grandson of the late Mrs. Alice West, of Detroit. The wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening by the Rev. Charles H. Cadigan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in heavy ivory, satin fashioned with a tight bodice, bracelet length sleeves and round neckline, which was accented with a collar of hair-loom lace. The bodice was distinguished by a ruching of the satin which outlined the waist line and the sleeves.

The full veil of illusion and chantilly lace fell to the end of the train of her gown, the lace forming a coronet on the cap which held the veil in place. The bridal bouquet was of lilies of the valley in a spray arrangement, centered with a large white orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. C. W. Pratt, was gowned in chartrreuse chiffon styled with a full skirt, sweetheart neckline, and bracelet length sleeves. The tight fitting bodice was shirred in panels of the same material. With this she wore a matching Juliet cap of net with a shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of coral carnations. The bridegroom's sister was the only other attendant and she was gowned similarly in wonder blue chiffon. Her bouquet was of pale pink carnations.

The bride's brother, Roswell Curtis, Jr., acted as best man. Wayne Andre, Mark Beltaire III, and Jack Richardson seated the guests.

A reception at the Detroit Golf club followed the ceremony. Mrs.
