(Continued from Page 1) I have to graduate. We have to pass on from the gay and glitzy life of the youth to the stern and compelling responsibilities of manhood and womanhood. There are things that you can avoid, if you want to avoid them. There are even some responsibilities of life that you can impose upon others, if you want to be irresponsible. There are other things you will face, willingly or unwillingly. The value of your life to yourself, you will have to determine. It depends upon the attitude that you assume toward this incredible thing called life.
