Ration Tokens Go Into Effect Here As Point Change

The food buying public of Birmingham has been busy since Monday becoming accustomed to using the new ration tokens designated by the OPA as a plan which it hopes will simplify the use of food stamps and speed up the food stamp point exchange in food establishments of the nation.

Consumers acquire the tokens only through the retailer who gives them as point change.

The OPA has ruled that your storekeeper may give the small, five-cent coins as change only when you make a purchase.
