Folks in Uniform

Charles (Doc) Arducci, medical department, U. S. Navy, writes from Holyville, Calif., that he looks forward anxiously each week to the arrival of the Birmingham Eccentric, and enjoys it very much, especially the items in "Men in the Service." "It is most interesting to see where the old boys are now stationed, who is on leave or furlough and who is moving around," he writes. "I am now in training down in the Imperial Valley where training in the heat is not always such a pleasant pleasure."

Women in Service

Phyllis Bradwood, Doloff American Red Cross assistant district, whose safe arrival in India was announced recently, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bradwood, Detroit. Until her Red Cross appointment, Mrs. Bradwood taught at Higgins School in Detroit, and previously at Kingswood School, Bloomfield Hills. Her husband, Lt. (j. g.) Norman H. Dolloff, is a member of the U. S. N. R. and was a member of the Cranbrook School faculty for six years.

They swing the modern American music, even in staid old London. So says Sgt. Charles Lyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lyle, 1347 Yorkshire. Sgt. Lyle and a fellow officer were up in London on special duty and decided to celebrate in one of the swank spots of that great city. They soon found the musical trio was made up of two women of the class of 1895 while the cellist was of the vintage of 1880. After a few classical selections the trio without warning swung into "Pistol Packin' Mama." "And did they swing it," writes the American.

Harvey Whalen, formerly of Greenwood avenue, now of Pasadena, Calif., reports that the three Whalen boys are now all sergeants. They are Staff Sgt. Harvey E. Whalen, Jr., U. S. M. C., now stationed in San Diego, Calif.; Sgt. Henry V. Whalen, who is in England, and Tech. Sgt. Howard W. Whalen, at Camp Forrest, Tenn.
