

American Legion Is Enjoying Many Special Sessions

The Charles Edward Post No. 14 of the American Legion has in the past two weeks been the host to two important organizations of the American Legion.

On Sunday, February 27, the Oakland County Vets No. 211 of the 40 and eight held their week at the Birmingham home at which several novices were reminded of the experiences many World War I soldiers had in France in 1917 and 18.

On Friday, night, March 3, the District Association of the 17th District, American Legion held their monthly meeting at the Legion Home.

Both these meetings were well attended and both organizations expressed gratification at the handling of a capacity crowd and the fine lunch served on both occasions by the Ladies of the Auxiliary.

The campaign of the Post to obtain or assist candidates for the female branches of the several services is beginning to show results. One candidate has taken preliminary examinations and will be announced on completion of further test or on induction.

A number of courtesy cards have been issued to local members of the armed forces. These cards may be obtained by calling Senior Vice Commander L. A. Carly, who will mail them on request. Or by applying at the Legion Home on meeting nights, the third Friday of each month.

The morning sun is shining bright, its beams are sure and steady. Down stairs is mother scrying. And breakfast's nearly ready.

They're back again with their heads and their mouths—to bigger and more lush rackets created by wartime shortages. Not booze alone, but everything we eat, wear or use is being "muscled in" on the 300,000 old way, with new angles added. Get the shocking story of the comeback of the gangs, told by the greatest gangbuster of them all.

"Solitaires" will be the subject of the Lenten-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 12.
The Golden Text (Romans 1:20) is: "The invisible things of him, from the creation of the world, clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and deity." Among the Bible citations in this message (Hebrews 1:1-3): "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."
The Lenten messages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: up 231 "Faith and advanced spiritual understanding, is the evidence of things not seen, which makes an of every kind and establishes the claims of God."

New Library Book
Designed to Help
Find Baby A Name

By LINDO MOORE

When "a tight little bundle of smiling and fanned, perplexed with the newly found fardel of life" appears on the scene, observation leads us to believe that he isn't half as perplexed as the fond parents.

Shall the little angel be called after great grandpappy, who was something pretty sure during the War between the States, or after Mamma's pet great-great-great, who practically built the Mayflower?

Of course their names are a little odd for the twentieth century, but think of the honor of bearing them! (No one will notice that the initials spell M.U.D. or P.I.G., until after the baptism.)

Designed to smooth the path of perplexed parents (and the waiting bundle, too) is the book newly added to Baldwin Public Library, Naming the Baby, by E. C. Smith. Suitably baby-like, this is a volume of suggestions for names, with lists of names for boys and girls, with their original meaning. There is also a discussion of the elementary rules of naming children.

Other new volumes at the Public Library include the following: Revive Your Old Furniture, by Louise Sloan. Clever and practical suggestions for rejuvenating the old homestead with little expenditure.

The St. Johns, by James Branch Cabell. The exotic Florida stream and the people who have lived along its banks. This and the following are new volumes in the Rivers of America series.

The Humboldt, by Dale Morgan. The most hated river in America and one of the most prominent in Western history.

Miniaturia, by Georgette O'Donnell. On the collecting of small objects of art. Fun to look at, even if you're not a bug on the subject. A spot of gear for lighter moments.

Michael Shaynes Long Chance, by Brett Halliday. Such goings-on in Miami!

The Bride Died Alone, by Vera Kelsey. She had to—her husbands had been murdered.

The Man Who Was Not There, by Ethel Luca White. By a master at child maker.

"You're giving to me when you give to the Red Cross!"

ELLEN—one million men in the services—but one alone whose name you never forget—one alone for whom you would do anything, give anything.

Through every dreary day you are buoyed up by thoughts of him. The long lonely nights are a little less lonely when you can read his letters, see his picture upon your bedside table.

And yet there is so little you can do for him. If only you could be sure of helping him when he needs you most.

But you can be sure. For you give to him when you give through your Red Cross.

Wherever he may be stationed... in camp or abroad, in desert, in jungle or icy waste, the Red Cross is at his side. Your Red Cross is there with "coffee and" when he finishes a long exhausting march.

Your Red Cross is there when he is lonely and lost in some strange city on leave.

Your Red Cross provides hostels, canteens, "a bed with clean sheets," cheer, comfort and companionship for him no matter where he may be.

Well, wounded, your Red Cross is at his side. The blood you gave goes to him, thanks to your Red Cross. His convalescence is made easy with books and games and gifts from a Red Cross worker.

Wherever he is—wherever he may go—he will never be out of your reach. For you give to him when you give through the Red Cross.

Of course, you have given before. Of course, you will give again.

But this year when the need is greater than ever... when it's your own men we serve... This year dig deeper than you have ever dug before and be glad that you can. For wherever he is

and the Red Cross is YOU!
