At a lovely home service at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon Maxine Waterbury, of Buffalo, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald James Waterbury, of Williamsbury road, became the bride of John R. Craig, of Buffalo, son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Allen Craig, of Bangor, Maine. The Rev. H. Paul Sloan, Jr., of the First Presbyterian Church of Detroit, officiated at the double ring service.

The couple spoke their vows before an improvised altar of ferns, white flowers and tall candelabra. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a net yoke forming a high ruffled neck and a deep V in the front of the bodice. Small buttons fastened the bodice in the back and the long sleeves which extended over the hands in points. The full skirt rested in a train. Three bands of satin formed her tiny hat from which fell her fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of white orchids and stephanotis.

The maid-of-honor, Helen Malczyk, of Buffalo, wore a pelphinium blue crepe gown and carried daisies. Norma Jean Waterbury, sister of the bride wore white net fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt; her bouquet was of the best delphinium and daisies. W. A. Fullerton, of Buffalo, was the best man.

Mrs. Waterbury chose for her daughter's wedding a long gown of dusty rose crepe with which she wore orchids.

The bride's table was laid with a white lace cloth, centered with the bridal cake which was surrounded with white asters and ferns. Mrs. Louis Benton, Mrs. William C. Howe, Mrs. Ralph J. Caspell and Mrs. L. M. Baker assisted with the reception which followed the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Corvill were celebrating their 24th wedding anniversary.

After a wedding trip to Toronto to the young couple will return to Buffalo where they will make their home. For traveling Mrs. Craig wore a slate blue gabardine suit, black accessories and white orchids.
